*The Institute of Bill of Rights Law was established in 1982 at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law to support scholarly research on the Bill of Rights, particularly the First Amendment. The Institute also supports work in the history of the Bill of Rights, and sponsors programs to facilitate interaction between the professions of law and journalism. The Institute of Bill of Rights Law was established by a bequest of Laura Lee, who held a lifelong interest in a free press and its role in our society, in memory of her parents, Alfred Wilson Lee and Mary I.
