Summer Studies in Law in England

July 7 - August 13, 1969

ON THE CAMPUS OF
THE UNIVERSITY OF EXETER

Exeter * England

A SIX-WEEK SESSION OF
ACCREDITED COURSES FOR AMERICAN LAW STUDENTS OFFERED BY THE
Marshall-Wythe School of Law
COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

In the Mother Country of the Common Law . . .

In the summer of 1967, as an extension of its established student and faculty exchange program with the University of Exeter in England, the College of William and Mary in Virginia inaugurated a program of Summer Studies in Law in England. Utilizing the physical facilities of the University of Exeter and the resources of the law library of the University's Faculty of Law, the College's Marshall-Wythe School of Law offered courses which were particularly appropriate for study in the surroundings of common law origins. Thus a number of American law students have been afforded a unique opportunity to earn credit, normally transferable to their home institutions, in the course of a summer of study in the homeland of Anglo-American jurisprudence. Courses taught by both English and American faculty were enriched by guest speakers and by visits to trial and appellate courts.

SCHEDULE

The 1969 Summer Studies program will consist of a single six-week term. Courses of 1 and 2 semester hours credit will be offered. Number of class meetings and duration of classes will be in accordance with the requirements of the Association of American Law Schools, and regular class attendance will be expected. A course load not in excess of 6 semester hours is recommended. Weeks of residence credit will be given commensurate with the number of semester hours credit carried. Credit will be given by the College of William and Mary the same as if the courses were being offered on the Williamsburg campus. All other law schools having students at Exeter approved transfer credit for the courses given in 1967 and 1968.

FACILITIES

Living accommodations, including room and board, and all regular classes will be offered at Crossmead Hall, formerly a private estate and now operated by the University of Exeter in the suburbs of Exeter (pop. 90,000). A suitable working library is maintained at Crossmead for collateral reading in the courses offered, and the law library of the University is available for use by students in the summer program.

ENGLISH LEGAL INSTITUTIONS

One of the primary advantages of the program of Summer Studies in Law in England is the opportunity to enrich the student's knowledge of American legal institutions and procedure by a comparison with English institutions which have developed out of the same cultural and jurisprudential background. Some course offerings are exclusively comparative, but all of them are oriented toward a continuing dialogue on comparative principles. In many courses, visiting lecturers will develop comparative aspects of the subject-matter. Visits to courts and other legal institutions will afford opportunity to observe English law in action.

COURSES TO BE OFFERED

Courses will be taught by regular members of the faculties of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and of the University of Exeter, with visiting lecturers and panelists as opportunity permits. Subject to enrollment and availability of faculty, the following courses are tentatively scheduled for the 1969 Summer Program. Courses meeting one hour daily will carry two semester hours credit and those meeting for one full hour on alternate days, one hour credit.

The courses have been selected with a view to strong affinity for the English common law, or subjects which in themselves are comparative law. Students may carry a total of 6 hours-credit courses. The hours at which the respective courses are to be offered are subject to change, as well as the subject courses themselves depending upon interest indicated by applicants.

ELIGIBILITY

The program of Summer Studies in Law in England is open to any American law student, over the age of twenty-one years, in good standing at a law school approved by the American Bar Association. There are limited facilities for married students, and limited facilities for single women students. Normally, an applicant will have completed or be in the process of completing at least one year of law study, although exceptional cases varying from the norm will be considered.

In filing an application for the 1969 summer program, students must submit with the application certification of good standing from his law school regularly attended.

TUITION AND EXPENSES

Registration fee (non-refundable)	$ 25.00
Tuition	250.00
Room and board at Crossmead Hall	210.00

The registration fee is payable upon filing the application. It will be refunded only in the event that the application is not accepted due to full enrollment.

DEADLINES FOR APPLICANTS

February 15, 1969 — Last date for submitting applications. The form on the last two pages of this announcement, or a letter containing the same data, may be used. It must be accompanied by (1) the $25 registration fee, (2) the certificate of good standing from the law school presently attended, and (3) completed preregistration forms.

March 1, 1969 — Applicants will be notified of acceptance or rejection of their applications.

March 15, 1969 — Payment of $210 for room and board at Crossmead. This payment is not refundable unless a waiting-list applicant purchases the accommodations.

April 15, 1969 — Full payment of tuition. Tuition is refundable thereafter only if applicant is unable to attend for reasons of sickness or military service obligation.

TRANSPORTATION ARRANGEMENTS

The College of William and Mary accepts no responsibility for transportation of participants in the program of Summer Studies in Law in England. It is anticipated, however, that charter plane flights will be available, and as plans for such flights materialize a special information sheet will be sent to applicants. The 1968 charter flight was arranged at a cost of approximately $245 per person, so that this figure may be used as a general estimate of the probable cost for a similar flight in 1969.

RECREATIONAL FACILITIES

The cultural opportunities attending the program of Summer Studies in Law in England are manifold and suited to every taste. Exeter, an attractive and ancient cathedral town, is located in Devon, in southwestern England, only a few miles from the South Devon coast with its excellent beaches. Direct train connections to London are also available. In addition to regular trips to sites and activities of professional interest, a number of events are planned for wives and families.
