THE SUMMER SCHOOL OF LAW IN ENGLAND — ITS ORIGIN AND PURPOSE

The College of William and Mary in Virginia has had significant relationships with England throughout its history. The College was chartered in 1693 by the reigning sovereigns, William and Mary, whose name it bears. The College's first building was constructed in 1695 from plans attributed to the renowned English architect, Sir Christopher Wren, builder of St. Paul's Cathedral in London. Through the efforts of Thomas Jefferson, an alumnus of the College, a chair of Law and Police was established December 4, 1779, thus making William and Mary the first to offer instruction in law in the United States.

In more recent years the College's continuing relationship with England and its educational institutions has been evidenced by an active student and faculty exchange program, and by establishment of the Summer School of Law in England in 1967 on the campus of the University of Exeter in Devonshire.

Modern dormitories, dining hall, and the classrooms of Exeter's campus, as well as the law library of the University, were made available. In addition, distinguished members of the faculty of the University's School of Law agreed to teach some of the courses offered. The program has been further enriched by prominent speakers from the English Bench and Bar, as well as by a trip to "Legal London," visits to the Inns of Court and to English courts when in session.

Since American and English legal systems developed from the same cultural history, one of the primary advantages of the program is the opportunity to enrich understanding of American legal institutions by a comparison with the English legal system. Emphasis is also placed on English legal history and international law.

CURRICULUM AND CREDITS

The Summer Law School in England, as an extension of the Williamsburg campus, is fully accredited. The 1979 program will consist of one five-week term with 13 courses. Class meetings and duration of classes will be in accordance with the requirements of the American Bar Association and the Association of American Law Schools. Regular class attendance will be expected. A maximum course load is six semester hours. It is recommended that not more than two courses be taken; thus four, five or six credits may be earned. Residence credit will be given commensurate with the number of semester hours credit carried. The Marshall-Wythe School of Law will give the same credits as if the course were being offered on the Williamsburg campus. All other law schools having students at previous sessions have approved the transfer of credits for the course taken by their students.

LIVING FACILITIES

Within brief walking distance of the Law School building is the Lafrowda residential complex used by the Summer School of Law in England. The Lafrowda complex is a recently constructed residence facility for single men and women and for married students and their families. Included are a student lounge, a pub, a game room, tennis courts, an outdoor swimming pool, and the cafeteria at which faculty and students take their meals.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

There is reasonable time in the afternoons and on weekends during the Summer Session for recreation and travel.

Exeter is an attractive and ancient cathedral city only a few miles from the superb beaches of the South Devon coast. Excellent pubs and inns abound. Nearby are picturesque moors, enchanting seacoast villages, the Roman city of Bath, Stonehenge, and historic castles and cathedrals. Direct, fast train service to London is available several times daily. Tennis, golf, sailing and other athletic facilities are available. Exeter has excellent theater and music programs. For further information, a Guide to Studying and Living in Exeter is available.

CURRICULUM AND PROGRAM NOTES

Centre for European Legal Studies

This specialized research agency of the law faculty of the University of Exeter was established in 1972, primarily to coordinate teaching, research and training of practicing lawyers in European Economic Community law. Its broader objectives are to develop a systematic study of civil law, comparative and international law. It offers advanced work leading to the LL.M. degree, and its general program is expected to be systematically coordinated with the work of the Summer School of Law.

Common Market Law

Course offerings in the Law of the European Economic Community have been introduced into the curriculum of the Summer School of Law in England. The University of Exeter School of Law has pioneered in this area, and its courses have attracted wide attention from members of the British Bar.

Comparative and International Law

Among the faculty members selected for the annual summer school of law are specialists in such subjects as civil law, international public and private law, international business transactions, and comparative law. The opportunity to study these subjects from the perspective of English legal practice has proved particularly beneficial to American law students in the past.

English and American Law

One of the goals of the Summer School of Law in England is to provide an understanding of the common law system, in the mother country of the common law. In addition to basic course work in English legal dition to basic course work on English legal history and the legal system, many of the American law courses in the same curriculum emphasize comparisons with English law. Lectures by members of the British bench and bar augment these courses.
