S.B.A. Candidates Reveal Platforms

As a service to its readers, The Advocate is publishing a compilation of campaign platforms at each of the three student organizations for the S.B.A. presidency. Remember to vote in the primary election on Mar. 22nd. If you are interested in running for one of the other S.B.A. posts, or if you know someone who would make a good S.B.A. officer, submit your application or nomination by 5 p.m. tomorrow.

TERRY KILGORE
S.B.A. Vice-President

SBA President Terry Kilgore wants to move on up step and become the new S.B.A. President. In continuing on his current path, Kilgore is particularly excited about the SBA presidency. Kilgore stated, "I'm especially looking forward to working with the SBA President and I hope to begin planning for the upcoming year. Next year offers a vast array of challenges in the SBA. The new President must carry the student voice to the new Dean. Additionally, the SBA itself needs extensive reorganization present SBA assisted with nearly every student organization at Marshall Wythe. My objectives for next year include:

- Reorganizing the SBA Committee structure.
- Restucturing the Speaker's Committee with the goal of acquiring prominent speakers on topics of current interest.
- Carrying the student position in the administration of all SBA business. I believe in the importance of taking for all ideas that are important to the students.
- Investigating the possibility of acquiring a student member on the faculty standing committee, especially the curriculum committee.
- Implementing fund-raising to aid in the various means representing Marshall Wythe interests.
- Routine contact with this student body,平方米 rehabilitation of social activities.

As the current SBA Vice-President, I can meet these challenges. I will need a job training and can immediately start working on some of the next year. My objectives for next year include:

- Scheduling, where we reserve the necessary space and time for different activities held in the SBA throughout the University system.
- Activities undertaken by the various groups or result of training over the last two years.
- Furthering the understanding of the needs of the students.
- Aiding the students to deal with nearly every student problem.
- Interact with and gain the cooperation of other students.
- Scheduling, where we reserve the necessary space and time for different activities held in the SBA throughout the University system.
- Activities undertaken by the various groups or result of training over the last two years.
- Furthering the understanding of the needs of the students.

KUTZ NAMED EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

The Law Review has announced its Board selections for 1985, and has named Rob Kutz as its new Editor-in-Chief. Kutz is a 1977 graduate of the U.S. Coast Guard Academy. After graduation, Kutz entered the Coast Guard service and has served as an Analyst in the Commercial Department of the Coast Guard. Additionally, Kutz has served as a Navy officer and as a hearing officer for the Army. Kutz stated that several ideas have been put forth regarding the Law Review, but generally the goal of an Editor-in-Chief is to ensure that the Law Review is a forum for the publication of scholarship and to provide a vehicle for the exchange of ideas among students and faculty. One of the most important functions of the Law Review is to provide a forum for the exchange of ideas among students and faculty. Second-year students Party Bulley and David Cott will be the Co-Chairs of the Client Counseling Competition at the University of Virginia. They and their team members will be the only team members to run the competition in the history of the Client Counseling Competition. The subject area for this year's competition is counseling and mental health. According to team advisor Peter Singer, there are those who specialize in counseling and mental health, but they do not receive counseling training in law school.

Bulley and Cott began their counseling training at Marshall Wythe's Intercollegiate Counseling Competition in February.
Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

As the vice chairman of the Marshall-Wythe Republicans, I am not the last to grumble about the Nuts-Eating Nut in the White House. My problems with the present regime, however, are somewhat different from those of the students who are now involved in the dormitory situation. I am not a big fan of Geraldine Ferraro. She is presently a private citizen and is not a member of the student community. However, I am not convinced that she is the perfect alternative to the present occupant of the White House.

I must admit that I have not made a thorough study of her background, but I have heard that she is not very popular among the students at Marshall-Wythe. It is possible that she may have made some ill-advised comments in the past, which could harm her chances of becoming the next president of the United States.

I believe that we should support the current administration and work towards a better future for the country. We must not let our personal feelings influence our decisions. Let us work towards a common goal, which is the betterment of the nation.

Sincerely yours,

Toxic Torts
By Doug Klein '87

This weekend at my grandpa's 80th birthday
when the toast went around, my grandmother was the center of attention. She lives in a small town in Wisconsin, and her 80th birthday seemed to be the big event of the week.

"I'm still alive," she said, "and that's what matters."

But the real story of the weekend was my grandmother's new preoccupation with her health. She's been diagnosed with cancer and is in the process of deciding what to do.

"I don't want to die," she told me. "I want to live."

And so, as my grandmother struggles with her health, I find myself wondering about the future of the medical profession.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I was impressed by the article on the current state of the medical profession in the Advocate. It is clear that there is a need for change in the way medicine is practiced.

Sincerely,

M.N.

The Peyton Place School of Law & Love

By HAROLD Y. BARRELL

Some random musings from within the confines of Marshall's "Peyton Place" White's. It's a Yeatsian, rambling is a lullaby, auburn is a rant, and all the rest is seen through等. What can I do? I seem to be able to stand up against it, but also, after a valiant struggle, I've been washed away by the seduction to enjoy pleasures of the flesh. If you can't beat 'em, join 'em.

The real hotbed of law school pleasures of the flesh is the ulterior pleasure of the flesh. We love our style, pal. It does all fit together. That's what's going on between people, but who the people are, is not what's going on between people. It may be small, but we're slow.

But what's been going around is that it's going on between strange bedfellows, to coin a phrase. And in so doing, some innocent dating has been unintentionally flaunted. There's always something that brings out the most primal desires in everyone, including the most prim and conservative young lawyers. What goes on in a Virginia Beach anyway? Can I go?
