Congratulations Class of 2004!

The time has come for the class of 2004 to complete their studies at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. There were a great deal of firsts for this year’s graduating students; they were the first class to use the new wing, the first class to be recruited and attend law school completely in the new millennium, and the first class with an Mredit graduation requirement and a retroactive pass-fail. These and possibly many other firsts mark this class as unique. The graduating class can also be characterized by some very definitive lasts as well. This may well be the last class to have a majority of its members born in the 1970’s, or the last class to have experienced the great air-conditioning outage of April 2002. On a much more serious note, the class of 2004 was the last class to enter law school in a pre-September 11th world. Through all these lasts and lasts, and in a time of economic and social upheaval, the 3L class maintained an astounding level of excellence in academics, civic contributions, and extra-curricular activities.

For the first time in the history of the Advocate, all of the Law Journal issues were published on time this year. The Dean asked “And they did it with lots of qualitative material. It was a banner journal year.” The Moot Court team brought in awards from nearly every competition it entered. The trial team also enjoyed unprecedented success in its competitions. The Advocate increased readership and interest in the publication, entered the national ABA contest for law school newspapers for the first time in at least a decade, and two staff members won the journalism awards for the campus for the first time in at least as many years.

Over the course of the last three years, the Public Service Fund (PSF) raised a record amount of money and found a record number of students for internships in public service. The internships were funded through both PSF and other sources ranging from the international, including: Legal Aid of Cambodia, International Juvenile Mission in India against child labor, and the South Pauli Banquet, Thanksgiving food drive and many others all made significant contributions throughout the class of 2004’s time at W&M.

ORDER OF THE COIF

The Order of the Coif is a national scholastic honor society in law. Its purpose is “to foster a spirit of careful study and to mark in a fitting manner those who have attained a high grade of scholarship” in the study of law. The English Order of the Coif was the most ancient and one of the most honored institutions of the common law. Its origins may antedate the Norman Conquest. The American Order of the Coif was founded in 1912. Membership in it is the highest academic honor a law student may achieve. It is equivalent to membership in Phi Beta Kappa for undergraduates, recognizing the scholastic achievement of students selected from the upper ten percent of their class.

AWARDS GIVEN AT GRADUATION

The Citizen Lawyer Award

This award honors a graduate or friend of the Law School who stands squarely in the Jeffersonian tradition of outstanding citizenship and leadership.

The Walter L. Williams Jr. Memorial Teaching Award

This annual award is named in honor of the late Professor Walter L. Williams Jr., who died in 1991. The winner is selected by the graduating class.

The Lawrence W. F. Anson Award

The Lawrence W. F. Anson Award is presented annually to a member of the graduating class who in the judgment of the Law School faculty has shown evidence of great professional promise through scholarship, character and leadership. The award, supported by an endowment given by the Beazley Foundation of Portsmouth, Virginia, honors the late Lawrence W. F. Anson, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia and first President of the Board of Directors of the National Center for State Courts.

The George Wythe and John Marshall Awards

These awards have been made possible through the generosity of William & Mary graduates Robert Friend Boyd and Sara Miller Boyd. The Wythe and Marshall Awards recognize exceptional character, leadership and selfless service to the Law School community. The Wythe Award goes to a member of the law school student body and the Marshall Award to a member of the faculty or staff.

The Thurgood Marshall Award

Given annually by the William & Mary Law School Association, the Thurgood Marshall award goes to that member of the Marshall-Wythe community, whether student, faculty member, friend or alumnus, who best exhibits the ideals of distinguished public service exemplified by Justice Marshall.
Jessica G. Taverna

Jessica,

We congratulate you on your achievement of your law degree. We are proud of you for all the hard work that went into your accomplishments. It has been wonderful having you here with us in Williamsburg. We are going to miss our fun times together.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Angeline Carolinna Godbey

Scott, Congratulations, Son. You have accomplished your lifetime dream. Words can not express how proud we are of your great achievements.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Aurelann Carollinn Godbey

From Tokyo to Nepal. From Foreign Service to the law. Third World econ gave its call Many degrees for your wall But its you we love more than all And the help you'll give to those who fall

Love,
Don and Sonia Godbey, your parents

Scott C. Herman

When you were young your dreams were of heroic accomplishments. You pushed yourself to climb high peaks, run a 2:52 marathon, become fluent in Spanish and Portuguese, complete two years in the Peace Corps in Bolivia, and now are graduating law school. Way to go, Mr. G!

Love,
Mom and Dad

Harmon LaMont Cooper (Monty)

To Our Dear Monty,

Thank you for realizing years ago that a winner is someone, who believes and trusts in God, sets realistic goals, commits himself to those goals, and then pursues relentlessly his goals until they are met. You continue to make us proud.

Much Love.
Mommy and Dad

Yvette Zassenbraker

Fantastic! What a wonderful accomplishment and a job well done. Best of luck in your new profession. You have made us both very proud!

Love,
Mom and Dad

Dana Bowling

We are so proud of you. Congratulations and best of luck for your future success.

Love,
Mom, Bob, Ryan, and Hurricane

Adrienne Griffin

Congratulations to our #1 daughter. We are very proud of you.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Erika, Phil, Jared, Kurt and Kato

Gunther Chappé Chesnut

When you were young your dreams were of heroic accomplishments. You pushed yourself to climb high peaks, run a 2:52 marathon, become fluent in Spanish and Portuguese, complete two years in the Peace Corps in Bolivia, and now are graduating law school. Way to go, Mr. G!

Heather L. Arpin

Holding you in our arms twenty-four years ago, we knew you were our dream come true. Watching you achieve your own dreams has been a joy. We are so proud of you.

Love,
Dad, Mom, and David

Jason William Vander Poorte

We are so proud of you. Congratulations and Blessings for the future! "For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, 'plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you hope and a future." Jeremiah 29:11

Love,
Mom and Dad

Gary Shaun Richardson

Shaun: We are so proud of you. We knew you and always knew you would go far and make all your dreams come true. Congratulations on your graduation.

Mom, Dad and your family

Scott, Congratulations, Son. You have accomplished your lifetime dream. Words can not express how proud we are of your great achievements.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Christina Y. Carroll

Sparkling Christina: eleven schools, five continents, five languages; discarded complaints and copyrighted bragging rights; juggling unanticipated joys and obstacles; packing, moving, unpacking, tolerantly accepting environmental "adjustments" and questionable aircraft; obstinately struggling, leaping across those MBA finish lines. You never stop increasing the bounds of our pride.

Mom and Dad

Joshua Raynes

Melon heads rock! We are so proud of you and love you very much! Congratulations.

Mom and Mike
Some people only worry about what life has to give to them. But there are others, like you, who work hard to make good things happen in their lives. You are self-driven and are good at driving yourself to make good things happen for them too. That also makes you special.

Some people might be afraid of new experiences, of taking risks, of facing the unknown. But there are others, like you, who accept new challenges with eyes open wide in hopes of learning new things and achieving new goals. That makes you very special!

Day by day, you are becoming the person you desire to be. You are someone extremely special to us, someone we greatly admire, and someone we are tremendously proud of. Keep dreaming new dreams, climbing new mountains, and reaching new heights. Congratulations to you as you begin your journey into the world of law, our pride and love go with you.

Mom, Dad, and Jeff
Goodbye to the Class of 2004!
Anne E. Maurer

Congratulations Anne!

To our precious daughter who has brought so much love and joy into our lives. We are so proud of you. We love you!

Jeremiah 29:11

Love,
Mom, Dad, Chris, Leslie, and Erich

Jennifer Marie Macierowski

To our daughter Jennifer:
You have always reached high, given much, and worked hard.
Our wish for you, all you deserve and more.
Congratulations and Love always,
Mom, Dad, and Lawrence

Kendra Dawn Arnold

When you were born, Kendra, we couldn’t have possibly known the heights to which you would soar. The “firsts” you would achieve, or the people you would meet. Remember your motto — “I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me.” We love you and are proud of you!
Mommy and Daddy

Leah Nicole Harris

Nikki.
Sometimes a child is born and it is clear they are destined for greatness. We know God has called you to accomplish a purpose beyond what we can even imagine. Hold fast to that call. We are so proud of you as a person. God bless.
Love, Mom & Dad

Nicole Bridget Lillibridge

Nicole, You’ve reached another star!! Dad and I recall your ardent focus in pre-school as “list maker” (even to this day); and in grade school our “novelist” and “creative entrepreneur.” Celebrate our pride over a job well done and in being the intelligent, compassionate woman you continue to become.
Love, Mom & Dad

Eric Peterson

Congratulations Eric on a successful three years at William & Mary. We are so very proud of you and appreciate the sacrifices you have made to achieve your goal. What a wonderful thing you have done. Bravo!
From: The whole family

Golaleh “Lili” Kazemi

We are extremely proud of Golaleh for her impressive achievement, which she has earned, despite many adversities, through pure perseverance, diligence, proper focus and unassailable stamina, resilience, and determination. We hope that her intellect and wisdom will continue to guide her to success in all walks of life.
Bijan & Zina Kazemi

Kieran Murray

Proud of you? Always! You have worked ardently, eating meagerly, always stayed focused. Your sense of humor and gentle spirit have served you well. Thomas Wolfe says it best, “... he has gloriously succeeded and won a satisfaction and a triumph few men ever knew.”
Congratulations, Mom, Dad, Delilah, Gillian, Greg

Edward Walter Berg

Hurrah Edward, our enchanting, ever-growing, an Army-Captain son. With valor and vigor you’ve gutted Salmon in Alaska, parachuted from planes, patrolled in Thailand, married and had Cora Jane. Good Luck in going forward to serve God and others. Thanks for enriching our lives.
Love, Mom & Dad

Brendon Hayes Chandonnet

Brendon Hayes, After 22 years of educational excellence, it seems like only yesterday, since you attended “Kids College.” We are extremely proud of you and your accomplishments. Best of luck for a bright future, you deserve it! Always be happy!
Love, “The Allied St. Posse” (Dad, Mom, Cait, & Sky)
As the outgoing News Editor, I would like to thank the entire law school community for giving the news staff something to write about. I can truly say that my position on the paper has given me an enlightening understanding of just how much is accomplished at this school, by students and faculty alike. From trial team competitions, to journal symposiums, to faculty and guest lectures, you have done it all, and have done it well. Special thanks to those organizations whose leaders actually sought out members of the Advocate staff to request coverage. I appreciate your reliance on the paper.

On a personal level, I would like to thank everyone who has written for news over the past two years. I especially thank Susan Billheimer, who has given us wonderfully informative articles about the school Honor Code and Legal Aid clinics, to name only two of many. Thanks also to Gary Abbott, who has served as copy editor for the past two years and has put up with last-minute submissions, stray commas, and stressed-out section editors.

Finally, I know I am leaving the News section in the eminently capable hands of Marie Siesseger, who served as my assistant this year. I thank her for her incredible commitment over the past two years and have no doubt that she will continue to improve the quality of the paper.

Best wishes,
Adrienne Griffin
The Advocate is proud to announce Raj Jolly won the Charles-McDowell Award and Shannon Hadeed the Rex Smith Award for excellence in journalism. Huzzah!

Correction Box: Please note that on the cover of the last issue of the Advocate, the man standing with Dean Reveley was NOT Oliver Hill. It was the Honorable Nathaniel Jones. Please excuse the error.

Congratulations Graduating Class of 2004!

Messages from the William & Mary Administration and Faculty

Your first year in law school witnessed some of the most stressful and frightening events that have ever occurred in our individual and collective experiences. Not only did you survive law school despite the devastating events of your first semester, you went on to thrive and contribute in ways unsurpassed by any class that I know of. We at William and Mary know that you are going to succeed beyond your wildest expectations; you, in turn, know that we at William and Mary will take credit for every single success you achieve.

Congratulations!

Susan Grover

The class of ’04 has been a great class; we will miss having you around. Come back and see us sometime.

Do a little more than you planned to do.

What a wonderful group of people make up the graduating class in our law school. Others will surely talk about your diverse backgrounds, your great abilities, and your devotion to the study of law. I will, though, always think of the Class of 2004 as being remarkably committed to working for the public good. Over the past three years I and others have become involved with a number of criminal justice-related projects including work in capital matters, educational programs at correctional centers, and providing research assistance for lawyers handling appeals of indigent criminal defendants. On each occasion we have asked members of your class to participate, to work for no unit credit, no money. On each occasion we were overwhelmed by the generous response, always far too many people to be working on a particular project. So many of you have labored mightily on difficult pro bono matters under trying conditions. Yet always you have been enthusiastic, cooperative, and genuinely helpful. For all of that, I say to you, Class of 2004, thank you so much for being such a caring group of outstanding individuals.

In the hopes that others can learn from my experience...

The Five Most Important Things I've Done Right Since Graduating From Law School (that I can state publicly):
1. Had 2 children.
2. Quit pretending I had hair on the top of my head by combing strands from side to side (was becoming a "swoop guy")
3. Started exercising regularly (not until I turned 40, very painful at that age; do it sooner!)
4. Learned to stop fighting it, and instead embraced my addiction to eBay.
5. Weighted personal satisfaction in work for above monetary compensation.

The Five Most Important Things I've Done Wrong Since Graduating From Law School:
1. Let my daughter join a travel soccer team (don't let it happen to you — kids whole weekends. What ever happened to pick-up games at the schoolyard?)
2. Lost touch with good friends from law school.
3. Boarded a return flight from Antigua, British West Indies (AKA Paradise, ooooh, those powder white beaches, nearly deserted, stretching for miles ...)
4. On a number of occasions: acting without sufficient reflection, especially when angry.

The Legal Skills Program extends sincere appreciation to our graduating Junior Partners. You have made this a remarkable year with your talents, good humor and collegiality. Kendra Arnold, Heather Arpin, Casey Chmielewski, Ted Cundick, Andy Fox, Jennifer Gorga, Ashley Franchek, Fernita Moore, Shoven Richardson, Kathryn Sacco, Jeff Thumpe, Yvette Zassenbroeker YOU WILL BE MISSED!

Andy Fox - we have been proud to be your partners. Thank you for your hard work and commitment to our Legal Skills Firm. - Jim and Paddy

The Academic Support Program wishes to thank the graduating teaching assistants - Thomas Cullen, Goleleh Kazemi, David Massaron, Sarah-Nell Walsh, and Katherine Williams. Your energy and expertise have helped countless students. Thank you!

To the Class of 2004 — I know you won't forget your three years (and for some of you, seven years) in Williamsburg. I know you will spread the word to your employers and others just what a wonderful law school this is. Never underestimate the power of word-of-mouth! But please do three more things after you leave here:

1. Keep in touch with your professors — e-mail us when you're involved in a matter you think might interest us — we're always glad to hear good war stories, stories of triumphs and stories about interesting client problems.
2. Ask us for help — when you confront an ethical problem, or a research assignment that seems to have no answer, see if we can offer some assistance (the price is right and we frequently have some pretty good advice); and
3. Keep in contact with each other — this kind of networking will make it easier if you want to make a job change in a few years, and is also a very satisfying way to keep connected. My other suggestions are the same as always:

   (1) Have some fun,
   (2) Do some good, and
   (3) Cause a little trouble for someone who deserves it.

My very best wishes to you all.

<td>Class of 2004, it's hard for me to believe you're graduating. I remember as if it were yesterday talking with some of you during your admission rites. I encountered President Lamberth for the first time in June 2001 in the faculty mailroom. William had made an early pilgrimage from Tennessee to Williamsburg to take the pulse of the school and the Burg and to begin earning some money to sate expenses.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>From my perspective, you've done an unusually effective job while at Marshall-Wythe -- in our demanding classrooms, in competitions across the country, as administrative GBFs, research assistants and TAs, in a very dismal job market, on many service fronts, and perhaps most strikingly in the Law Schools myriad student-run organizations, where your leadership, creativity, common sense and good cheer have had a superb impact. The Amicus reborn smashing as The Advocate is a great example of what I'm talking about, but it's only one example among many.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Early during Law Camp when you had barely joined us, I pointed out you were beginning a relationship with Marshall-Wythe that was going to last a relatively brief time on campus and then for the rest of your life. The fact you went to William &amp; Mary Law School is now an abiding part of your identity. Please do stay in touch with your legal alma mater because it wants very much to have you as a participating member of the family for many decades to come.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>You go with my warmest best wishes. I'm going to miss the Class of 2004 a lot.</td>

1) When you have to make a difficult decision, go with your gut.
2) Never pass up the opportunity to use a restroom.
3) The library staff is here to help you, even after you graduate.
4) Good health, and good luck! |
