Lan Cao

Lan Cao is a Professor of Law and the Boyd Fellow at William & Mary Law School. Professor Cao graduated from Mount Holyoke College, Phi Beta Kappa, and received her law degree from Yale University, where she served as note editor of the Yale Law Journal. She clerked for Judge Constance Baker Motley on the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York, and practiced law with Paul, Weiss, Rifkind, Wharton & Garrison in New York City. She was a Ford Foundation Scholar in 1991.

Professor Cao joined our faculty in 2001 after teaching law at Brooklyn Law School for six years. She teaches corporations, international business transactions, and international trade law.

Professor Cao has written numerous articles in distinguished journals and two books: a novel, Monkey Bridge (hardback 1997, paperback 1998), and Everything You Need to Know about Asian Americans (with Himilce Novas) (1996, 2d ed. 2000).

Professor Cao is a member of the Executive Council of the American Society of International Law.
