W&M Law School Names Donaldson Associate Dean

Richmond Times-Dispatch — Jon S. Williams

Jon S. Williams, associate dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at the College of William and Mary, effective Sept. 1, announced, who was presented to the board of the faculty in June, had been selected for the associate dean position. The associate dean of the college-wide membership to teach positions in the law school.

James B. White, dean of the law school, announcing Williams’s appointment, said the position of associate dean would be enlarged to give the dean more responsibility in the areas of law school administration and planning, as well as its other administrative activities. The said Williams would continue to teach in the area of tax law.

Prior to joining the William and Mary law faculty in 1996, Williams served on the faculty at the College of William and Mary. Since 1990, he has been a member of the IRS.
