Fall 2020

Dana Drozina LL.M. '21: Reflections on the Fall 2020 Semester

Dana Drozina

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/covidwriting

Part of the Legal Education Commons, and the Virus Diseases Commons

Repository Citation
https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/covidwriting/10

Copyright c 2020 by the authors. This article is brought to you by the William & Mary Law School Scholarship Repository.
https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/covidwriting
Dana Drozina LL.M. '21

Reflections on the Fall 2020 Semester

Do you feel you were connected with the school and your instructors?

The school did everything it could to encourage students and instructors alike to connect with each other. In particular, I felt a great connection with the instructors who were readily available for answering any of my burning questions, despite remote instruction.

As an LL.M. student, were you able to build a sense of community with your class?

This year’s LL.M. class turned out to be an amazing group of diverse individuals who never miss a chance to engage with and help each other. I am proud to say that in just five months we have managed to build a strong sense of community within our class and have built some strong friendships that will last a lifetime.

What are your hopes for spring semester and beyond?

I hope to further expand my knowledge in areas of law that interest me. Beyond learning new things, I wish to keep getting inspired by the W&M law school community to do better and be better.