CLAYTON P. GILLETTE

Clayton P. Gillette is the Max E. Greenberg Professor of Contract Law at NYU School of Law. He teaches in the areas of Commercial Law, Contracts, and Local Government Law. Gillette is a co-author (with Steven Walt) of Sales Law: Domestic and International, as well as of major casebooks in PAYMENT SYSTEMS (with Robert E. Scott and Alan Schwartz) and LOCAL GOVERNMENT (with Lynn Baker).

He has authored numerous articles that explore subjects ranging from the role of reputation in commercial transactions, to the ability of local governments to redistribute wealth, to the political economy of international sales law.

Professor Gillette received his B.A. from Amherst College and his J.D. from the University of Michigan School of Law. Prior to joining the NYU faculty in 2000, Professor Gillette served as Perre Bowen Professor of Law at the University of Virginia School of Law, and as Professor of Law and Warren Scholar in Municipal Law at Boston University. He was Vice Dean at NYU School of Law from 2004 to 2007. Before entering academia, Gillette clerked for Judge J. Edward Lumbard of the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, and was associated with Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen and Hamilton in New York City. He is currently a Visiting Professor of Law at Columbia Law School.

The Wythe Lecture

The George Wythe Lecture Series, begun in 1976, is named in honor of the occupant of the first Chair of Law at the College of William & Mary and in the United States. George Wythe was not only the law teacher of distinguished patriots – Jefferson and Marshall among them – but also one of the most distinguished lawyers, statesmen, and judges of the late colonial and early national periods.
