SELECTED HIGHLIGHTS
1998-99

• More than 76% of the Class of 1999 contributed to the 3L Class Gift, with pledges exceeding $73,000 (see p. 48).

• The Annual Fund achieved a record high of $480,000, an increase of 17% over the last fiscal year.

• The William & Mary Bill of Rights Journal was ranked 7th out of 285 special law reviews surveyed in "An Empirical Evaluation of Specialized Law Reviews," a law review article published in 26 Fla. St. U.L. Rev. 813 this summer.

• Plans were finalized for a 21,000-square-foot north wing addition to the Law School Building. This addition will include new classrooms and meeting spaces; a Legal Skills Center; an improved Career Planning and Placement Office with a resource library; faculty offices; and office space for the Commonwealth's Attorneys Services Council.

• Our Moot Court team captured First Place and won Best Brief at the Howard Civil Rights competition. Dennis Barghaan was awarded Best Oralist.

• By February 1999, 99.4% of 1998 graduates reporting to the Office of Career Planning and Placement had secured jobs or were pursuing advanced degrees (see p. 28).

• Selected classrooms were renovated with new audio-visual technology, improved seating, paint and carpet. Halls and stairwells were repainted.

• Throughout December 1998 and for the first two months of 1999, Professor Michael Gerhardt served as CNN’s prime legal commentator on impeachment. He was the only witness chosen by both the Republicans and Democrats to testify before the U.S. House of Representatives on November 9, 1998.

• Director of the Law Library and Professor of Law James Heller served as president of the American Association of Law Libraries.

• Hunton and Williams lawyers established a $263,000 endowment in honor of Dean Reveley.
Dear Graduates and Friends,

This annual report covers 1998-99. Last May, a powerful group of 3L's left us for judicial clerkships and jobs all over the country. A large class of equally impressive 1L's was recruited, arriving in mid-August. The faculty taught and wrote in its usual distinguished fashion, with involvement as well in many other activities important to legal education, the bench and bar.

Alumni Reunions last April drew the largest group of graduates and family ever. People had a great time seeing old friends and renewing ties to the Law School and Williamsburg. The Law School's graduates also intensified their support of Marshall-Wythe on all scores — for instance, advice and encouragement, help with student placement and recruiting, and dollars to sustain the school's progress as state support declines.

When you have a spare moment, check the school's new website for alumni at http://law.wm.edu/alumni. Once you've taken a look, do let us know how best to improve it.

Cordially,

W. Taylor Reveley III
Dean

Reunion classes — 1969, 1974, 1979, 1984, 1989, 1994 — gathered for parties on campus and around town. Special thanks to all Reunion Committee members (see p. 51) and to Gil and Polly Bartlett for hosting the 30th Class Reunion in their home.

In addition to class parties, the weekend included CLE’s, a family picnic, golf, tennis and the Citizen-Lawyer Dinner.

Ernest Goodrich received the Citizen-Lawyer Award, given annually to an individual who best represents the characteristics of the citizen-lawyer as envisaged by Thomas Jefferson and George Wythe.

Mr. Goodrich, a 1935 graduate of the College, taught on the Law School faculty from 1946 to 1950. He also served on the College’s Board of Visitors from 1964 to 1972 and was Rector from 1970 to 1972. He has been a leader in community and state affairs since his election as Commonwealth’s Attorney for Surry County in 1939.

The William & Mary Law School Association presented Ernest W. Goodrich with the 1999 Citizen-Lawyer Award. Mr. Goodrich graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the College of William & Mary in 1935 with an A.B. in jurisprudence. A recipient of the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Award for service to the College, Ernest later attended George Washington University Law School where he received his J.D. in 1938 and earned his LL.M. in 1946.

Mr. Goodrich’s service to his community, his state and the law remains unparalleled. In 1939 he was elected as the Commonwealth’s Attorney for Surry County. Following his service in the U.S. Navy from 1942 to 1946, he continued to work in the Commonwealth’s Attorney’s office until 1975. Despite the challenges of this position, Ernest maintained his own private practice in Surry and returned to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law where he taught taxation as an adjunct professor from 1946 to 1950. So respected was he by students and faculty alike that one graduate established the Ernest W. Goodrich Professorship in 1993 as a tribute to one of the Law School’s most beloved professors.

Ernest has combined his love of the law with his desire to serve the community through his participation in many volunteer activities. He has been a member of the Executive Committee of the Virginia State Bar and was elected for three non-consecutive terms to the Fourth Disciplinary Committee of the Virginia Attorneys Association. He has been chairman of the Committee on the 300th Anniversary of Surry County and delegate to the White House Conference on Education in 1956. He was president of the Bank of Surry County from 1952 until 1980. He has served as chairman of the Transportation Safety Board of Virginia and as aide-de-camp to Virginia Governors Stanley, Almond, Harrison, Godwin, Dalton and Robb.

Mr. Goodrich has also been a loyal and active alumnus of the College. He served on the Board of Visitors from 1964 to 1972 and was Rector from 1970 to 1972. He has been president of the Law School Association, chairman of the Olde Guarde Council and a board member of the Endowment Association and the Society of the Alumni. In 1979, the Society of the Alumni awarded him its highest honor, the Alumni Medallion.

ALUMNI WEBSITE AVAILABLE

Marshall-Wythe alumni have a new website. Go to http://law.wm.edu/alumni to check it out. You will find news about the Law School, regularly updated class notes, a calendar of events, reunion information and more. You can e-mail us your news, address changes and words of wisdom. Pledges to the Law School Annual Fund for Excellence can be made online.

We hope you will visit the Law School Alumni website often and will share your thoughts on how it can be improved. The goal is to provide a website that you will find interesting and valuable.

Several years ago Chief Judge H. Robert Mayer '71 of the United States Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit was approached to take part in an important aspect of the Law School's life — Moot Court. The Moot Court experience gives students the opportunity to make appellate arguments in front of volunteer judges, practicing lawyers and professors.

Chief Judge Mayer has served on the panel of judges used to select the members of the Moot Court team. Students chosen for the team take part in tournaments throughout the country.

William & Mary Law School hosts its own annual tournament, the William B. Spong, Jr. Invitational. This tournament is a chance for students to hone their oral skills and their brief-writing ability. Chief Judge Mayer served as one of the judges in the finals of the spring tournament. Moot Court judges provide important feedback to students. The chance for students to practice their oral skills before real judges, like Robert Mayer, is invaluable.

Chief Judge Mayer's involvement with the Law School has gone beyond the Moot Court program to include his participation in the Co-Counsel program and past leadership on the Alumni Association Board.

The Class of 2002 arrived at the William & Mary School of Law on August 16, 1999. Like those before them, they brought colorful and varied backgrounds to the school. Following are a few examples of previous work experiences including a biochemist, forensic technician, veterinarian, helicopter pilot, school principal, international trade advisor, and several engineers, several accountants, and three physicians.

The Class of 2002 as a group:

- Class Size: 201
- Median GPA: 3.36
- Median LSAT: 163 (90th percentile)

Colleges and Universities Represented: 116

States/Countries Represented: 37 states, D.C. and 5 foreign countries

Number Holding Graduate Degrees: 30

Average Age: 24

Female: 42%

Male: 58%

Students of Color: 12%

Our LL.M. program in the American Legal System adds further to this rich environment with international students from Venezuela, England and France.
OVERVIEW OF ACADEMICS

CURRICULUM PROMOTES LEGAL TRAINING

Our curriculum has grown to include nearly 120 courses and seminars in an average year, a 50% increase from five years ago.

A sampling of new course offerings includes:

- Advanced Research Techniques
- Adversarial Justice
- Citizen Lawyers: America’s Leaders
- Directed Research
- European Union
- Family and the State
- Feminist Legal Theory
- Immigration Law
- Law and Development
- Law and Literature
- Law and Social Justice
- National Security Law
- Prosecuting Organized Crime
- Toxic Torts

In addition, our award-winning Legal Skills Program provides effective hands-on instruction and careful analysis of professional skills and professional responsibility in a small group setting during the first two years of law school.
FROM THE STUDENTS’ PERSPECTIVE

“We all know that law school can take its toll at times. Regardless of which institution a student attends, one thing remains true — immense reading assignments, deadlines and stress are often a constant. The William & Mary School of Law, however, provides students with an atmosphere that facilitates a low-stress and collegial environment. The faculty and students work hand-in-hand to constantly improve the curriculum and the manner in which classes are taught. Everyone, including Dean Reveley, has their doors wide open, always encouraging student involvement and discussion. William & Mary offers the unique combination of challenging academics with an open and friendly faculty who are always willing to help students. The faculty treat students as peers rather than subordinates. In a sense, William & Mary constitutes more than a community; we’re like a family.”

— Jonathan Campbell 3L, Moot Court Chief Justice

“I have often heard from friends at other law schools around the country that their professors are completely inaccessible, trapped in ‘ivory towers,’ with little time to donate to students. The same cannot be said of William & Mary. Professors have provided students here with invaluable resources, whether giving their time to help a student prepare her law review note, imparting some insight regarding law firms at which that professor may have worked in the past, or just chatting with students about topics in class. Their doors really are always open.”

— John M. (Mac) Stuckey 3L, President, Student Bar Association

“The William & Mary School of Law provides practical applications of the law. In the two summers that I worked with students from other law schools, I felt that I was much more advanced in my legal abilities because of the school’s legal skills program.”

— Megan Hogan 3L, Executive Editor, Journal of Women and the Law
OVERVIEW OF EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

PREPARING THE CITIZEN-LAWYER

Thomas Jefferson and George Wythe created the law school at William & Mary in 1779 to train citizen-lawyers. There emerged a powerful progression of them, starting with John Marshall.

Dean Spong told the last class to graduate under his leadership that "Jefferson's idea of taking the study of law away from the apprentice model and into an academic setting was ... to assure that the practicing lawyer would be a whole person, with an understanding and appreciation of many things beyond the artisan demands of a skilled trade."

The Law School offers rich and varied extracurricular activities for students, complementing and enhancing academic life. Through these opportunities, students acquire valuable leadership experiences, hone their intellectual skills and learn the importance of serving others.

The William & Mary Moot Court Program has a long history of success as a student-run organization. Members of the Moot Court team travel to various competitions around the country to argue their cases against other law school teams, before distinguished panels of judges and attorneys.

In 1998-99, William & Mary sent 11 teams to various tournaments around the country and had one of its most successful seasons in history. At the Howard Civil Rights competition, our team captured First Place and Best Brief. Dennis Barghaan was awarded Best Oralist. Our American Bar Association Constitutional Law team was among the top four teams for our region, and progressed to the national ABA competition in Chicago, where they advanced to the quarter-finals of the tournament. The Moot Court team clinched second place at the Duke University Legal Ethics tournament and was awarded runner-up for Best Brief. The New York Labor Law team advanced to the quarter-finals. The Nationals team advanced to the quarter-finals at the regional level of competition.

SCHOLARSHIPS and LOANS

Scholarship Recipients, 1998-99
183/528 students = 34.6%

Loan Recipients, 1998-99
473/528 students = 89.5%
Total loan volume = $8.3 million
Average 1998-99 loan per borrower = $17,555

Eighty-two percent of scholarships are funded by private gifts. The financial support of our alumni and friends is increasingly important to the Law School's capacity to attract the quality of students that Marshall-Wythe has come to expect.

The Law School's operating budget this year came largely from private funds – tuition paid by students plus contributions from alumni and friends. The state provided only 21 percent of the 1999-2000 budget. The Law School's finances, accordingly, rest on a public/private partnership, in which the taxpayers' share of the whole is now much smaller than it used to be.
