DARYL LEVINSON

Daryl Levinson is the David Boies Professor of Law at NYU. He has also held faculty appointments at Virginia and, more recently, Harvard, where he was the Fessenden Professor of Law and a faculty fellow of the Harvard Project on Justice, Welfare, and Economics. His primary field of teaching and research is constitutional law, but Levinson's scholarship has ranged more broadly, addressing topics such as group punishment and empire-building government. Levinson has received the Sacks-Freund teaching award at Harvard and the Podell Distinguished Teaching Award at NYU. He is a member of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences.

THE JAMES GOOLD CUTLER LECTURESHIP

The Cutler Lecture series was established in 1927 by James Goold Cutler of Rochester, New York, to provide an annual lecture at William & Mary by “an outstanding authority on the Constitution of the United States.” The original series of 16 lectures ran from 1928 to 1944. After a period of dormancy, the Cutler lectures were revived in 1980/81 under the auspices of the Law School, with each lecture published in the WILLIAM AND MARY LAW REVIEW.
