

1994

Molecular Motions: The Holmesian Judge in Theory and Practice (Program)

Thomas C. Grey

Repository Citation

Grey, Thomas C., "Molecular Motions: The Holmesian Judge in Theory and Practice (Program)" (1994). James Goold Cutler Lecture. 27.

<https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/cutler/27>

Copyright c 1994 by the authors. This article is brought to you by the William & Mary Law School Scholarship Repository.

<https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/cutler>

[1994]

THE CUTLER LECTURE

1993-1994

Marshall-Wythe School of Law
Institute of Bill of Rights Law

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

April 7, 1994
Room 127, 11:45 a.m.

Thomas C. Grey

Thomas C. Grey holds the Nelson Bowman Sweitzer & Marie B. Sweitzer Chair at the Stanford Law School. Professor Gray received his B.A. from Stanford, a second B.A. from Oxford, and his LL.B. from Yale, where he served as Note & Comment Editor of the Yale Law Journal. He is a member of the Order of the Coif.

Prior to beginning his teaching career, he served as Clerk to Judge J. Skelly Wright of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit and later as Clerk to Justice Thurgood Marshall of the United States Supreme Court.

Professor Grey is the author of numerous scholarly articles and of The Legal Enforcement of Morality (1983) and The Wallace Stevens Case (1991).

THE 1993-94 CUTLER LECTURE

PROGRAM

WELCOME AND INTRODUCTION Rodney A. Smolla
Director of the Institute of Bill of Rights Law and Arthur B. Hanson Professor

LECTURE "Molecular Motions:
The Holmesian Judge in Theory and Practice"

Thomas C. Grey
Sweitzer Professor of Law
Stanford University

THE CUTLER LECTURES

The Cutler Lectures were established in 1927 by James Goold Cutler, of Rochester, New York to provide for an annual lecture at the College of William and Mary by "an outstanding authority of the Constitution of the United States." The first series of sixteen lectures, which ran from 1927 to 1944, included lectures by outstanding figures from both public life and the academic world, including Harold Laski, Max Lerner, and Charles Warren. After thirty-seven years of dormancy, the Cutler Lectures were revived in the 1980-81 academic year, with each lecture published as an article in the William and Mary Law Review. The April 7, 1994 lecture is the twelfth of the modern series, which is intended to follow both the spirit and prominence of the earlier lectures.

THE INSTITUTE OF BILL OF RIGHTS LAW

The Institute of Bill of Rights Law was established at William and Mary to support scholarly research on the Bill of Rights. Established in 1982 by a bequest of Laura Lee, who held a lifelong interest in a free press and its role in our society, in memory of her parents, Alfred Wilson Lee and Mary I.W. Lee, the Institute's central focus is scholarship and education on freedom of speech and the press. It is an academic foundation with a mission of quality research and public education.