Law School Dedication -- A Dream Fulfilled

College of William & Mary

Repository Citation

Copyright © 1980 by the authors. This article is brought to you by the William & Mary Law School Scholarship Repository. https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/history
Two new professorships at the Law School were announced at the dedication ceremony.

Three of the state’s most influential businessmen have pledged more than $150,000 to establish the professorships honoring the two-time governor. Contributions have been received from Richmond financier R. E. Brown and Newport News, chairman of the board of directors of Dan River, Inc.; Virginia National Bankshares; and Virginia National Bankshares; and Virginia National Bank, chairman of the board of directors of the Virginia Bank for Savings.

The professorships honor one of the state’s most respected and popular leaders in the 20th century: Governor William and Mary, and the dedication of the new law building was set for November 12th.

Bicentennial, Dedication Gifts

On behalf of the students and faculty of the Law School, special recognition of appreciation for the many gifts and donations made as part of the Bicentennial celebration of the establishment of the first law school at the College of William and Mary and Mary and the dedication of the new law building were set for November 12th.

- Warren F. Nett, O.C., the faculty and students of the law school, presented the Law School with a special gift of a gold and silverslide of the first law school at the College of William and Mary, the dedication of the new law building was set for November 12th.
- The Virginia Lawyers Wives, for contributions to purchase books for the library of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.
- Louis Blackburn, Class of 1950, for contributions enabling the College of William and Mary and Mary and the dedication of the new law building were set for November 12th.

Large Crowds Turn Out for Weekend Festivities

Law School Dedication - A Dream Fulfilled

On behalf of the students and faculty of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, this building is dedicated with profound thanks that the dreams of many are today fulfilled. It is accepted as a gift from the people of Virginia. Our gratitude is accompanied by resolve to use this splendid facility for the benefit of the many in addition to those who study law.

The long history of legal education at William and Mary, together with the efforts of the leaders of the Commonwealth, has contributed to the establishment of the new school. It is a legacy of leadership which we are determined to continue.

To the Virginia Lawyers Wives, for contributions to purchase books for the library of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

- Louis Blackburn, Class of 1950, and Dr. William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for their gift of early American legal documents on display in the courtroom.
- William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for the presentation of the battery of oral arguments at the dedication ceremony.
- John Pagan, a member of the law faculty who attended the dedication.
- The Virginia Lawyers Wives, for contributions to purchase books for the library of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

On behalf of the students and faculty of the Law School, special recognition of appreciation for the many gifts and donations made as part of the Bicentennial celebration of the establishment of the first law school at the College of William and Mary.

- William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for their gift of early American legal documents on display in the courtroom.
- John Pagan, a member of the law faculty who attended the dedication.
- The Virginia Lawyers Wives, for contributions to purchase books for the library of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

On behalf of the students and faculty of the Law School, special recognition of appreciation for the many gifts and donations made as part of the Bicentennial celebration of the establishment of the first law school at the College of William and Mary.

- Louis Blackburn, Class of 1950, and Dr. William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for their gift of early American legal documents on display in the courtroom.
- William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for the presentation of the battery of oral arguments at the dedication ceremony.
- John Pagan, a member of the law faculty who attended the dedication.
- The Virginia Lawyers Wives, for contributions to purchase books for the library of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

On behalf of the students and faculty of the Law School, special recognition of appreciation for the many gifts and donations made as part of the Bicentennial celebration of the establishment of the first law school at the College of William and Mary.

- Louis Blackburn, Class of 1950, and Dr. William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for their gift of early American legal documents on display in the courtroom.
- William B. Swindler, John Marshall Professor of Law, for the presentation of the battery of oral arguments at the dedication ceremony.
- John Pagan, a member of the law faculty who attended the dedication.
- The Virginia Lawyers Wives, for contributions to purchase books for the library of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.