JUSTICE CLARK SPEAKS AT LAW DAY MAY 6

With retiring Supreme Court Justice Tom Clark as the featured speaker, the 1967 Law Day weekend promises to be as stimulating and informative as any of recent years, and continues the Law School practice of focussing several significant events around the annual spring meeting of the William and Mary Law School Association.

The schedule of events is amplified by separate stories throughout this issue of the News Letter. The extended weekend activities will be introduced by a preliminary ceremony in Richmond when one of the new Marshall-Wythe Medallions will be presented to the John Marshall House on May 4.

On Friday, May 5 an International Symposium on Space Law, described in the story in the accompanying column, will be conducted at the Williamsburg Conference Center.

That evening, the Student Bar Association will have its first annual Barristers' Ball in the Virginia Room of the Conference Center.

As in the past, this morning of May 6 will be devoted to the annual business meeting of the William and Mary Law School Association.

The Association luncheon, with Mr. Justice Clark as the speaker, will be held at noon in the Virginia Room of the Conference Center.

The Association business meeting, held at the Law School, will hear a report on the progress of the plans for renovation of the former library building for Law School use by the fall of 1967. A summary of the year's activities in the Law School, and reports of various officers and committee chairmen, will also be featured.

A native of Texas, and a graduate of Virginia Military Institute, Mr. Justice Clark took his LL.B. at the University of Texas in 1922. He practiced in Dallas for several years before entering government service, serving for a number of years as civil district attorney for Dallas County. In 1943 he became assistant Attorney General of the United States and in 1945 was promoted to Attorney General, a position he held until his nomination to the Supreme Court in 1949. This spring he announced his retirement as of the end of the current term of court.
The following first-year law students were named as candidates for the editorial staff of the Law Review; front row, left to right: Jon Bruce, Karen Atkinson, Paul Holtzmueller, Charles Friend, Paul M. Morley. Back row: James K. Stewart, Glenn Sedam, Robert P. Kahn, Eugene Hetchkopf, John Gaidies, Gilbert A. Bartlett. Not shown is a twelfth candidate, Gary Legner. Friend was denominated the outstanding candidate by the Law Review staff.

18 Schools Represented
In Exeter Summer Program

Eighteen American law schools are represented among the nearly fifty students who have signed up for the Law School's first summer program of study in England. A charter flight for the William and Mary contingent, from Dulles Airport in Washington directly to London, has also been confirmed, and provision for married students as well as single men has been assured. Thus the launching of what is hoped to be a distinctive annual summer program under the Law School's sponsorship is proceeding auspiciously.

Professor E. Magruder Faris, Jr., director of the summer program, said that in addition to the College of William and Mary the law schools represented in the 1967 summer program include the University of Florida, George Washington University of Houston, University of Kentucky, University of Missouri at Kansas City, University of Louisville, Loyola of New Orleans, William Mitchell College of Law, Mercer University, University of Miami, Ohio State, Rutgers, University of Richmond, University of South Carolina, Wake Forest College, Wayne State and Western Reserve.

Professor Faris and Dr. Dominik Lasok, Exeter Exchange Professor at the Law School this past year, will be two of the three faculty members in the 1967 program, with a third person from the Exeter faculty to be announced.

The local committee administering the summer program include Professor Faris as program direc-

ANNUAL BARRISTERS' BALL
LAUNCHED ON MAY 5

An added note to the growing string of activities of Law Week at the College is the inauguration this year of the Annual Barristers' Ball, sponsored by the Student Bar Association for students, faculty and alumni. The dance will be formal, from 9:00 to 1:00 p.m., and the Meyer Davis Orchestra of Washington, D.C. will provide the music. The dance will be in the Virginia Room of the Williamsburg Conference Center on May 5.

Part of the expense of the Ball will be met from the proceeds of the canteen maintained this year by the Barristers' Brides, which was described in a feature in the Fall 1966 issue of this News Letter. The rest of the cost will be covered by a $10 per couple charge, which will include admission to the dance, snacks and all liquid refreshments.

Members of the Law School Association planning to come to town for the Space Law Symposium or otherwise arriving early for the Association program the next day, are invited to attend the Ball. Reservations may be made with Steve Harris in care of the Student Bar Association at the Law School.

tor, and Professor William F. Swindler and Associate Professor E. Blythe Stason, Jr.

Any alumni of the College who wish to avail themselves of the charter flight rate, and plan to be in Europe from June 26 to August 24, are eligible for any available seats on the flight.
FIRST LAW SCHOOL MEDAL TO GO TO ALI PRESIDENT

Norris Darrell, senior partner in the New York firm of Sullivan and Cromwell and president of the American Law Institute since 1961, was selected by the Law School faculty as the recipient of the first Marshall-Wythe School of Law Medal. It is planned to make the formal presentation of the medal to Darrell at the June commencement ceremonies.

A faculty committee consisting of Professors James P. Whyte, chairman, and E. Blythe Stason, Jr. and William F. Swindler, recommended the ALI head to the full faculty with the observation that Darrell perfectly embodied, in his professional career, the type of service to the law which the medal is intended to recognize. By unanimous approval the Law School faculty then forwarded the nomination to President Davis Y. Paschall, who extended the invitation to accept the award.

A second presentation of the new medal will be made to the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities, for display in the John Marshall House in Richmond, on May 14. In approving two awards the first year, the law faculty noted that the special significance which the Marshall House held for Marshall's old Law School seemed to justify the course of action. It is contemplated that hereafter there will be no more than one such award annually, and the occasion for the presentation will vary with the special events of the College year.

Darrell received his LL.B. degree from the University of Minnesota in 1923. For two years following, he was law clerk to then Supreme Court Justice Pierce Butler, and then joined the New York firm with which he has been identified ever since. Since 1934 he has been technical adviser to the Committee on Economic Development, and has served as adviser to many state and national tax programs. He is a trustee of the Practicing Law Institute and a Fellow of the American Bar Foundation, and internationally recognized as a leader in movements for the professional improvement of the law.

TWENTY MEN PASS DECEMBER BAR EXAM

Results of the December bar exam were recently announced, with the names of the following seniors or recent graduates of the Law School who successfully passed:

Ralph Barclay, Uniontown, Pa.; Peter Broccoletti, Brookneal; Craig U. Dana, Hachensack, Mich.; Stewart P. Davis, McLean; Charles T. Everett, Suffolk; Vincent Ewell, Hampton; Winston M. Haythe, Williamsburg; Rodney Johnson, Williamsburg; Raymond Kraftson, Williamsburg; William T. Lehner, Nanuet, N.Y.; Rufus H. Leonard, Jr., Richmond; Michael Lesniak, Williamsburg; Burke Margulies, Norfolk; Forrest Morgan, Jr., Williamsburg; Ocie Murray, Virgilina; J. A. Richardson, Virginia Beach; Charles Rideout, Williamsburg; Joseph W. Roskos, Somerville, N.J.; Howard Schiff, Union, N.J.; Strother Smith, III, Richmond.

Donaldson Joins In Tax Research Project In Fall

A joint research project between Assistant Professor John E. Donaldson of the Law School and Arthur B. White, who will be on leave to teach at the Southern Methodist University law school from the Internal Revenue Service, will be launched next fall. The project concerns the adequacy from an administrative viewpoint of the present tax exempt status of non-profit organizations. It looks to a series of proposals for improving the administrative machinery regarding these groups.

White is special assistant to the chief counsel, IRS. Both men will go onto reduced teaching schedules during the project, which is expected to occupy most of the first semester of the 1967-68 academic year.

Donaldson served as IRS tax counsel last year while completing work on his LL.M. degree at Georgetown University. He previously received an A.B. degree from the University of Richmond and his B.C.L. from William and Mary. He returned to the Law School as assistant professor last September.

FIRST ANNUAL LAW REVIEW AWARDS DINNER APRIL 21

With the first editor of the William and Mary Law Review as the featured speaker, the present staff will inaugurate an annual awards dinner this spring for members of the staff, contributors to the current year's issue, and Law School faculty members. The dinner will recognize the new staff members of the Law Review and will mark the occasion for presentation of certificates to the retiring staff members.

Harvey Chappell, B.C.L. '50, will speak on the experience of beginning the Law Review in his senior year. The annual William and Mary Review of Virginia Law was the predecessor of the present publication, which began in 1957 with a schedule of two annual numbers per volume. In 1962 the numbers per volume became semi-annual, and in the fall of 1966 the publication became a quarterly.

The 1967 Law Review dinner will be held on April 20 at the Holiday Inn in Williamsburg.

JUSTICE CLARK

coincident with the formal appointment of his son, Ramsay Clark, as Attorney General.

The Associate Justice has been awarded the gold medal of the American Bar Association and the first annual recognition award of the American Judicature Society, and is a fellow of the Institute of Judicial Administration. His professional affiliations include Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity, and membership in the Order of the Coif.

FACULTY ACTIVITIES

Associate Professor E. Blythe Stason, Jr. is the author of an article in the current issue of the Cornell Law Journal entitled, “Choice of Law Within the Federal System: Erie versus Hanna.” He has also recently been made a member of the Equity Council of the Association of American Law Schools, and in December will be one of the panelists at the Equity Round Table at the AALS convention in Detroit.

Professor William F. Swindler is completing his second book manuscript for Bobbs-Merrill; tentatively titled, Court and Constitution in the 20th Century, it will be published early in 1968. His article entitled, “America’s First Law Schools: Significance or Chauvinism?” appears in the spring issue of the Connecticut Bar Journal.

Dr. Dominik Lasok, Exeter Exchange Professor of Law, has an article entitled, “Les Traites Internationaux dans le Systeme Juridique Anglais,” published in a recent issue of Revue Generale du Droit International Public in Paris. In February Dr. Lasok was a guest lecturer at the University of South Carolina Law School.

Professor James P. Whyte has recently had the following arbitration awards published in professional reports: Washington, D. C. Publishers Association and Columbia Typographical Union, 6-1 ARB ¶8060; Wright Machinery Co. and Local 84 OEIU, 47 LA 1112; Aro, Inc. and Metal Trades Council, 47 LA 105, 66-3 ARB ¶9088.

STUDENT BAR INAUGURATES PRACTICAL LAW FORUM

A series of six Saturday morning forums of practical aspects of law practice has been conducted this spring under the auspices of the Student Bar Association. SBA President D. W. O’Bryan described the series as a “bread and butter” program, and it has been enthusiastically endorsed by both students and faculty.

State Senator Henry Howell of Norfolk initiated the program on February 25 with a discussion of “The Plaintiff’s Personal Injury Suit.” The speakers and subjects for the rest of the series were as follows:

March 4—Robert Phelps, “Traffic Court Proceedings.”
March 18—Ralph Rabinowitz, “Proceedings of Federal Court.”
April 8—Thomas Moss, “Criminal Proceedings.”
April 15—Guy Daugherty, “Examination and Cross Examination of Witnesses.”

Although not a part of this series, the Student Bar has also announced that on April 22 and 29 Larry Phillips of Mason & Company would present his intensive series of lectures in his “Introductory course on Stocks and the Stock Market.”
Concluding the pictorial report on the plans for the new law building, begun in the previous issue of this News Letter, the plan for the second floor is shown above. The shaded portion represents the section which cannot be completed with present funds.
TAX PROGRAM EVENTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Some 7,000 copies of the 1966 Tax Conference Proceedings have been printed and are being mailed to Law School alumni, all Virginia attorneys and accountants, and law libraries throughout the country. National tax organizations and graduate schools of business throughout the United States have also received the Proceedings.

For the summer, Dr. Thomas C. Atkeson has announced that Kent B. Millikan, a second-year law student who plans to continue for his Master of Law and Taxation after completing the professional course, has been selected as one of twenty-one law students in the United States to work with the Internal Revenue Service. Millikan will work directly with the Chief Counsel, IRS, Lester R. Uretz. Millikan received his undergraduate degree from Oberlin College.

Dr. Atkeson also has announced that the date for the 1967 Tax Conference has been set for Saturday, December 2 at the Williamsburg Conference Center.

SPACE LAW CONFERENCE

Approximately fifty invited participants from government, education, the legal profession and industry in the United States and abroad will be on hand for the one-day symposium. Representatives of the several armed services, the Department of State, NASA, the Communications Satellite Corporation and other federal agencies are among the scheduled speakers.

The program is to include a conducted tour of NASA's Langley Research Center and the Space Radiation Effects Laboratory; luncheon at the College; symposium papers at the Conference Center, and a reception and dinner featuring an address by John Cobb Cooper of Princeton, N. J., past president of the International Institute of Space Law.

Moderators for the symposium will be David F. Maxwell, past president of the American Bar Association; Paul G. Dembling, NASA general counsel; and Brigadier General Martin Menter, USAF, chairman of the ABA committee on law of outer space.

The program planning committee includes all of the parties named above, as well as Brigadier General Richard C. Hagan, USAF; Major General Alfred M. Kuhfeld, USAF (Ret.), associate dean of Ohio State University Law School; Leonard C. Meeker, legal advisor to the Department of State; and, ex officio, Fernando Fournier, president of the Inter-American Bar Association; Marshall C. Gardner, immediate past president, FBA; James McI. Henderson, first national vice-president, FBA; David Berger, past chancellor of the Philadelphia Bar Association and former City Solicitor of Philadelphia; Maximo Cisneros Sanchez, chairman of the IABA executive committee; Mauricio A. Ottenhgi, member of the IABA executive committee; Drew J. T. O'Keefe, president of the FBA Philadelphia chapter; Judge Earl Chudoff and A. S. Harzenstein, national FBA vice-presidents; Hobart Taylor, director of the Export-Import Bank, and Col. Mervyn R. Turk, USA (Ret.).

Participants in the symposium itself include the following: Lawrence R. Caruso, house counsel, Princeton University; John T. Clary, division counsel, Gulf Oil Corp; Dean Maxwell Cohen, McGill University faculty of law; Denis A. Cooper, chairman FBA aviation committee; Professor Donald W. Dowd, Villanova Law School; Dr. Richard A. Falk, Princeton University; Mrs. Eileen Galloway, special consultant, U. S. Senate committee on aeronautical and space sciences; Professor L. F. E. LAW REVIEW ARTICLES
ATTRACT ATTENTION

The Winter issue of the William and Mary Law Review, recently published, and the Spring issue now at the printers have both featured articles and notes which have attracted wide comment throughout the profession. In the case of the issue not yet published, the article awaited with considerable expectancy is the Gault Memorial Lecture given last fall at Eastern State Hospital. Its subject was "Alcoholism and the Law," and it was delivered by Peter Barton Hutt of the Washington law firm of Covington and Burling. The Law Review arranged with hospital authorities to publish the lecture since it was on a subject of mutual interest to law and psychiatry.

A brief but eloquent argument on "The Selection of Federal Judges: The Independent Commission Approach," was the lead article in the Winter issue, written by Senator Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania. Courts Oulahan of the Washington law firm of Rhyme and Rhyme was the author of a second article, "Some Practical Problems of Proxy Solicitation and Counting Under Virginia Law." A third article, essentially a study in legal and political history, was contributed by Professor Peter G. Fish of Princeton University under the title, "Secrecy and the Supreme Court: Judicial Indiscretion and Reconstruction Politics."

A major research note by David K. Sutelan and Wayne R. Spencer of the editorial staff studies the little-known Virginia Special Court of Appeals and suggested that it offered a constitutional medium of relief for the Supreme Court of Appeals.

In addition to the Gault Memorial Lecture, the Spring issue of the Law Review will contain articles by Howard N. Morse, consulting attorney to the American Medical Association, on "Legal Implications of Clinical Investigation;" by Robert J. Steamer, chairman of the department of government of Lake Forest (Ill.) College, on "The Court and the Criminal;" and a summary of 1966 tax legislation by Assistant Professor John E. Donaldson.

The 25-year summary of state constitutional development by Dr. W. Brooke Graves in the Fall 1966 issue of the Law Review has been distributed to fifty specialists by the National Municipal League. The article by Arthur B. (Tim) Hanson, BCL '40, "Developments in the Law of Libel: The Impact of the New York Times Rule," published in the Spring 1966 issue, has been widely reprinted and this month was included in the working materials of the Practicing Law Institute seminar on libel.

Whinney, director of McGill University Institute of Air and Space Law; Lt. Col. Walter D. Reed, USAF, international law division, JAG; Herbert Reis, assistant legal adviser, U. S. Mission to United Nations; Oscar Schachter, director of research, U. N. Institute for Training and Research; Walter D. Schier, former general counsel, NASA; E. J. Spellman, chief counsel, NASA Western Support Office; William S. Strauss, assistant general counsel, Library of Congress; Dr. Martin Summerfield, professor of aeronautical engineering, Princeton University; Allen E. Throop, vice-president and general counsel, Comsat; Brigadier General A. W. Tolen, USAF; Gunter von Conrad, secretary, FBA international law committee; and Isidoro Zanotti, department of legal affairs, Pan American Union.

New Law School Directory
Printed And Mailed

A handsome new edition of the Directory of Alumni, Former Students and Members of the Law School Association which went to press late last fall has been received from the printer and copies mailed to all who paid in advance for them. Professor Emeric Fischer of the Law School advises that additional copies are available for anyone wishing to send $3 to the William and Mary Law School Association to his attention.

Similar in format to the first printed directory published in 1959-60, the directory will also serve as a handbook for the members of the Law School Association, since it includes the Constitution and By-Laws of the Association as of the fall of 1966.

An interesting complementary list contains the names of members of the bar known to have received honorary degrees from William and Mary, from Thomas Jefferson in 1782 to Lewis F. Powell, Jr. as president of the American Bar Association in 1965. This list is in term complemented by the names of the two recipients of the honorary degree of Law and Taxation—J. D. Carneal, Jr. in 1963 and Otto Lowe, Sr. in 1964.

College records are incomplete as to the students who studied law in the first period of the College law program, 1779-1861, although they are known to have totaled between one and two thousand. The list of teachers, however, is complete from George Wythe, 1779-90 to Visiting Professor Dominik Lasok, 1966-67.

The Secretary of the Law School Association regrets the inadvertent omission of the following alumni from the new Directory. Please insert in the alphabetical and geographical listings in your copy:

BROWN, Merrill, L '36, 8 Front Street, Schenectady, New York 12305;
DALTON, Tecumseh S., Pulaaki, Va.;
LEMMON, Virginia Till (Mrs.), L '47, 161 Myrtle Street, Haworth, N. J. 07641.

Also please correct your copy to read as follows in respect to the following information set forth for:

SEAWELL, P. Hairston (spelling).
Include under HONORARY DOCTOR OF LAW AND TAXATION DEGREE RECIPIENTS:
Thomas B. Stanley, 1964.

Change to 1779 George Wythe's Teaching Date of Appointment at p. 57.
Law Library Announces Gift, Adds New Titles To Shelves

A gift of several hundred volumes, some of which have been deposited with the general library and others are being inventoried for addition to the Law Library, was received by the Law School in January from Mrs. Rebecca Y. Williams of Richmond. Among several rare and valuable items turned up in the inventory to date are an early edition of Bracton, thirteenth-century English treatise author, a partial set of Coke’s Institutes printed in 1671, and an early complete set of Pufendorff’s treatise on international law.

The Law Library also has listed the following titles among representative additions to the general collections this year:

DENNON, Secured Transactions under the Uniform Commercial Code.

ELKOURI, How Arbitration Works.

FALK, Role of Domestic Courts in International Legal Order.

GOLDSTEIN, The Family and the Law.

JONES, Arbitration and Industrial Discipline.

CRIMINAL PRACTICE INSTITUTE, Trial Manual for Maryland, D. C., Virginia.

POLLZIEN, International Licensing Agreements.

ROTHBLATT, Handbook of Evidence for Criminal Trials.

SENATE COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY, Federal Bail Procedures.

A B A, Sample Incorporating Indenture.

LAW SCHOOL ASSOCIATION TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Pursuant to the constitution and by-laws of the William and Mary Law School Association, new officers and successors to members of the board of directors whose terms have expired will be voted upon at the meeting on May 6. The meeting—hopefully, the last to be held in the present Law School quarters—will be in Classroom A.

This year’s officers, completing their term, are Marvin M. Murchison, Commonwealth’s Attorney in Newport News, president; Judge Robert E. Quinn, Hampton, vice-president; and Professor Emeric Fischer of the Law School, secretary-treasurer.

Retiring members of the board of directors are Arthur B. Hanson of Washington, D. C.; Preston B. Shannon of Richmond; and Donald H. Sandie of Portsmouth. The retiring president will become ex-officio a member of the board for the coming year.

DRESSLER, Readings in Criminology and Penology.

GEORGE, Constitutional Limitations on Evidence in Criminal Cases.

GILMORE, Security Interests in Personal Property.

MATHES, Federal Jury Practice and Instructions, Civil and Criminal.

N I M L O, Model Ordinance Service.

ORFIELD, Criminal Procedure under Federal Rules.
