Law School Ranks Number One Among Military Friendly® Graduate Schools

By Jaime Welch-Donahue

February 13, 2019

William & Mary Law School ranked number one on the list of Top 10 2019-2020 Military Friendly® Graduate Schools that was released on January 22 and will be published in the May issue of G.I. Jobs magazine. The school rose four spots from its rank of number five on the 2018-2019 Top 10 list.

“We hope that veterans and active duty military interested in law school will explore the opportunities here at William & Mary,” said Vice Dean Patricia Roberts, Clinical Professor of Law, Director of Clinical Programs, and Co-Director of the Lewis B. Puller, Jr. Veterans Benefits Clinic. “We are proud to count veterans and active duty military among our students, faculty and staff, at the Law School and across the university. Their presence enriches the community and our classrooms, and it is an honor to serve those who so ably serve the nation.”

About Military Friendly® Schools

The Military Friendly® Schools list is created each year based on research using public data sources for more than 8,800 schools nationwide, input from student veterans, and responses from participating institutions to the Military Friendly® Schools survey. The survey was developed with the assistance of an independent research firm and an advisory council of educators and employers. It is available for free and is open to all post-secondary schools. Criteria for consideration can be found at www.militaryfriendly.com.

About William & Mary Law School

Thomas Jefferson founded William & Mary Law School in 1779 to train leaders for the new nation. Now in its third century, America's oldest law school continues its historic mission of educating citizen lawyers who are prepared both to lead and to serve.
