Supreme Court Preview

WHAT TO EXPECT FROM THE 2002-20003 TERM

The Institute of Bill of Rights Law is pleased to invite you to attend its 15th annual Supreme Court Preview conference at which leading legal scholars, lawyers, and Supreme Court journalists will discuss and analyze the Courts upcoming term.

The conference will feature a Moot Court argument of one of the most important pending cases, Lockyer v Andrade, in which the Court will consider the constitutionality of "three strikes" sentencing laws.

The conference will also examine the civil liberty concerns raised by the war on terrorism and the relevance and quality of advocacy before the Supreme Court. Other panels will consider the leading cases that the Court will likely decide during the upcoming term. These cases include constitutional challenges to campaign finance legislation, copyright extension legislation, the Family and Medical Leave Act, library internet filtering regulations, cross burning legislation, sexual predator laws, the pledge of allegiance, and affirmative action at colleges and law schools. The application of RICO to anti-abortion protestors, the future of the Second Amendment, and the consequences of lawyer negligence during death penalty sentencing will also be examined.

The conference is ideal for journalists, editorial writers, lawyers, law professors, and government teachers who want an in-depth look at the Court's upcoming term. Each registrant will receive a 700 page notebook of materials that will provide detailed information about the Court's pending cases. We will offer up to 7 hours of CLE credit (no ethics) for those attending the conference.
