2006

The Advocate (Vol. 3, Issue 12)
Dear Class of 2006,

To my real surprise, it has been almost three years since we encountered each other in the front hall of the Law School on August 17, 2003. I was standing near the front doors blocking your path till you shook my hand and got a W&M Law School bumper sticker.

You have been the first class to enjoy the North Wing throughout your stay at Marshall-Wythe, and the first class to have Justice Sandra Day O’Connor as your Chancellor. You are the class that will have her as your graduation speaker (a real coup for ’06). And, of course, your class was catalytic in getting the school moving toward “high stall” restrooms, badly needed for decades and finally built thanks to you. You’ve stayed long enough to see our new law library rise from the earth, but you’ll get out of Dodge before we begin noisily gutting the old library to rebuild it as a seamless part of the new whole. Your timing is impeccable.

Your class gift effort has been extraordinary. It will help feed the Law School’s Loan Repayment Assistance Program, a vital new initiative. William & Mary had by far the largest number of law students (228) among the eight Virginia law schools who pledged hours as part of the Virginia Bar Association’s Community Service/Pro Bono Service Program. Our bone marrow fundraising was successful this year at a record level. On these fronts and many others, with your class leading the way, citizen lawyers are alive and well at Marshall-Wythe 226 years after Thomas Jefferson and George Wythe created a law school to produce them.

Virtually all our student organizations (those that have been around for eons, those born in 2005/06, and those in between) have been in full cry during your third year, which means while you were at the forefront of most of them. Our student government, journals, moot court, trial team, to name just a few, have been made a real difference for the better this academic year.

This has been a year rich with events – symposia, conferences, visiting speakers, and other happenings. We could spend most of our time savoring what’s served daily on these fronts. Early last fall we had General Zinni here as the Carter Lowance Fellow, and as the year winds down we had the Chief Judge of the State of New York, Judith Kaye, here as our Marshall-Wythe Medallion recipient. ORDER OF THE COIF

The Order of the Coif is a national scholastic honor society in law. Its purpose is “to foster a spirit of careful study and to mark in a fitting manner those who have attained a high grade of scholarship” in the study of law. The English Order of the Coif was the most ancient and one of the most honored institutions of the common law. Its origins may antedate the Norman Conquest. The American Order of the Coif was founded in 1912. Membership in it is the highest academic honor a law student may achieve. It is equivalent to membership in Phi Beta Kappa for undergraduates, recognizing the scholastic achievement of students selected from the upper ten percent of their class.

AWARDS GIVEN AT GRADUATION

The Citizen Lawyer Award

This award honors a graduate or friend of the Law School who stands squarely in the Jeffersonian tradition of outstanding citizenship and leadership.

The Walter L. Williams Jr. Memorial Teaching Award

This annual award is named in honor of the late Professor Walter L. Williams Jr., who died in 1991. The winner is selected by the graduating class.

The Lawrence W. I’Anson Award

The Lawrence W. I’Anson Award is presented annually to a member of the graduating class who in the judgment of the Law School faculty has shown evidence of great professional promise through scholarship, character and leadership. The award, supported by an endowment given by the Beazley Foundation of Portsmouth, Virginia, honors the late Lawrence W. I’Anson, former Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia and first President of the Board of Directors of the National Center for State Courts.

The George Wythe and John Marshall Awards

These awards have been made possible through the generosity of William & Mary graduates Robert Friend Boyd and Sara Miller Boyd. The Wythe and Marshall Awards recognize exceptional character, leadership and selfless service to the Law School community. The Wythe Award goes to a member of the law school student body and the Marshall Award to a member of the faculty or staff.

The Thurgood Marshall Award

Given annually by the William & Mary Law School Association, the Thurgood Marshall Award goes to that member of the Marshall-Wythe community, whether student, faculty member, friend or alumnus, who best exhibits the ideals of distinguished public service exemplified by Justice Marshall.
Dear Jennifer, Nicole, David, Nick, and Raj:

Thank you for all your hard work in bringing news and entertainment to Marshall-Wythe every fortnight. We will miss you tremendously, but we will take solace in the fact that you’ll be bringing news and entertainment, in one way or another, to the real world. Lord knows it could use your wit and vim.

Best wishes,
Kelly, Myriem, Tara, Will and the rest of The Advocate staff

Nicole, Nick, Raj, David, and Jen:
You guys set the best kind of example for the rest of us. Your heart, your energy, and most of all your good humor through all things were an inspiration - always. The Advocate will miss you muchly, and so will I.

Cheers,
Myr

PS - Nicole, you are, of course, exceedingly fabulous.

Nicole - You were editor extraordinaire, master of the photo montage, and sex educator to 600 law students. Those will be some tough heels for Will to fill.

David - Muckraking news at the law school was no easy task, but you must have been undercover on Wednesday nights. Thanks for sacrificing so many Friday afternoons to editing.

Raj - Chaachaajee and so much more. Your creativity and free spirit will be sorely missed. I hear the toaster in the lounge is not giving anymore exclusive interviews.

Nick - ARRGH matey, what would a newspaper be without a pirate at the helm of copy editing?
- Kelly Joanne Pereira

Dear Graduating Eds:

I can’t believe it was almost two years ago when I first met you all. I was a wide-eyed 1L, and you were seasoned second-years. You welcomed me aboard the good ship Advocate, quickly making me a member of the crew and putting me to work scrubbing the Features deck.

I still remember writing my first article covering last year’s SBA softball tournament. I think I just went ahead and wrote it because I thought I should, since I was going to be there anyway and since I had some sports coverage experience. Imagine my surprise days later seeing Jennifer’s parallel story on the same event! It was then I realized that our beloved little paper did not have any delusions of grandeur. We were all law students putting a newspaper together on the side, and that was just fine, thank you very much.

You all taught me to have fun with the newspaper—to take the job of bringing news and features to the law school seriously, but not too seriously.

Nicole, your columns were an inspiration. Fortunately, they did not literally inspire me to do anything. Hearing about the Victoria’s Secret annual sale was quite enough for me. But your stylish and humorous take on the age old topic always got people picking up the paper, and I always admired it. You were also a selfless and effortless leader these past two years. You leave a strong legacy, and I hope to do it justice. Thanks.

Jennifer, your business savvy and BLAWGing ability are unmatched—only when I attempted to write a BLAWG or two myself did I realize just how much of an art form it was. Thank you for keeping the paper in the black—it helps us print in both black and white and in color!

David, your workmanlike approach to the news is inspiring. Maybe that sounds strange, given your California ‘tude, dude, but it’s true. I was always impressed with your ability to cover, either by delegating to others or writing yourself, the important events on campus. You never let us see you sweat. Thanks for lending that to the paper. Wherever the future takes you, keep it up.

Nick, your sharp eye and even sharper wit are tremendous assets. Thank you for sharing them with us for a while. I hope you’re able to share them with the wider world (and maybe even get paid for it).

Raj, your friendship and Features leadership have been important and enjoyable aspects of my law school experience. From Sikhism to Queen to metaphysics to Koko the gorilla, you can always speak or write knowledgeably and effectively about just about anything. Your passion and humor are contagious. Thank you for making the world a more honest and happy place.

As I prepare to take over the helm next year, I have begun to appreciate more fully all you have done for the paper over the past few years. I thank you for giving me and the rest of the law school a publication better off than when you found it. More than your talents and abilities, though, I will miss your company and friendship. I wish you all the best in your future endeavors. When you all become successful, as I’m sure you will be, please don’t be strangers.

For everything you’ve given to The Advocate, thank you.

Fondly,
William Y. Durbin

The Green Leafe Café
Congratulates the Class of 2006!

Thank you for Three Years of Diligent Patronage.

Neill, Glen, Kevin, Nate and the rest of us all look forward to many years of continued good times with the Law Students: Our favorite clientele!
We ranked FIRST in the country out of 156 major law firms in the 2005 AmLaw Summer Associates Survey. Year after year we are first in the overall rating as a place to work, getting high marks for training, mentoring, collegiality and family friendliness. And it doesn’t end there. We’ve also consistently ranked in the top 10 in the AmLaw Midlevel Associates Survey. Because we believe that a fulfilling legal career is a marathon, not a sprint, many summer associates spend their whole careers with us, developing strong bonds with clients we have served for decades and forging new client relationships through excellent client service.

Jennifer - We are very proud of you for all of your hard work and accomplishments over the past three years. We know you’ll make a wonderful lawyer and are excited to see what the future holds for you. Love Mom, Dad and Michelle.
Friends and Graduates,

You are truly a remarkable class. It has been my privilege to be the classroom instructor to many of you, and also to work with you on moot court and law journals, to see you as you practice trial advocacy, work at the local jail, provide pro bono assistance to the less fortunate. In every one of these endeavors you have shown yourselves to be extraordinarily caring and talented individuals. I wish you much happiness and good fortune as you move beyond law school, you certainly deserve it!

Warm regards, and please stay in touch with those of us remaining in Williamsburg.

Paul Marcus

I wish you the best in all you do. I encourage you to stay in touch with your friends and your law school. As you go forward in life, remember that you have the real capacity to change the world for the better, one client, one case, one day at a time. I hope you will stay in touch. I am here if you ever need me.

Best wishes,
Judge Baker

I offer one of my favorite quotes, and encourage graduates to become members of E.M. Forster’s aristocracy:

“I believe in aristocracy, though [not] an aristocracy of power, based upon rank and influence, but an aristocracy of the sensitive, the considerate, and the plucky. Its members are to be found in all nations and classes, and all through the ages, and there is a secret understanding between them when they meet. They represent the true human tradition, the one permanent victory of our queer race over cruelty and chaos.”

You may find yourselves in situations that seem to offer no opportunity to act according to your principles - to make use of your courage or your compassion or your honesty. In fact, every situation gives you opportunities to make choices based on your principles. Look for those opportunities. Behave in ways that make you proud of yourself. And know that your alma mater is proud of you too.

However successful we may become, let us always remember that we are all just sisters and brothers in the Family of Man. My very best wishes to all of you.

Remember, the court reporter’s primary job is to preserve the record. Your primary job is to make the record.
Always speak up, enunciate clearly, give case cites, and provide word lists including cites. When the last words have been spoken, all that remains is the record.
Court reporters get the last word!

Messages from the William & Mary Administration and Faculty

Best wishes to members of the Class of 2006—you arrived just in time to be sent home to wait out Hurricane Isabel. Now, three years later, you’re ready to take on the bar exam. In between, you’ve played poker for good causes, supported the bone-marrow drive in astonishing numbers, made up gorgeous Thanksgiving baskets for BLSA, won (or lost) your first oral arguments, won (or lost) your first cases on appeal, surprised us with the quality of your thoughts and ideals in class, sponsored excellent symposia, written thousands of footnotes, and helped make William & Mary a wonderful, good-humored place to be. The faculty is lucky, lucky, lucky, to know such an exceptional group of students. Now, go out and shake up your world!

Jayne W. Barnard

We have enjoyed working with you these last three years. Work hard, putt straight, put a little backspin on your free throws, and have fun. And don’t hesitate to contact us when you get a tough reference question.

Best of luck in everything that comes your way.
