TAX CONFERENCE

This publication records the presentations and major discussions of the Thirteenth Annual Tax Conference held in Williamsburg, December 2, 1967. These Conferences are conducted by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law of the College of William and Mary as an adjunct to the graduate program in Law and Taxation. A list of prior Tax Conference publications may be noted on page 111.

These Conferences have for their objective the discussion of policy, technical and procedural matters of an advanced nature in the area of Federal, State and local taxation by recognized authorities for the enrichment of the Law School curriculum, and as a service of practical application to Virginia attorneys, accountants and representatives of business and industry.

It may be observed that those serving as speakers and discussion leaders for this and prior Conferences are distinctively representative Federal and State tax officials, tax practicing attorneys and accountants, and members of law school faculties. The College acknowledges with deep appreciation their significant contribution to these Conferences, and commends their participation in this leadership opportunity as a recognized exemplification of public service in the highest tradition.

The College also records its appreciation to the many attorneys, accountants, and representatives of business and industry who have responded so graciously by their participation in and support of these Conferences. This increasing manifestation of interest lends encouragement to students and faculty of the Law School, and accentuates the importance of the efforts made by all who sustain the Conferences.

The printing of this publication is made possible from private funds, and the College gratefully acknowledges the support for such a worthy endeavor.

LAW AND TAXATION AT THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

THE MARSHALL-WYTHE SCHOOL OF LAW

A chair of law was established at the College of William and Mary by action of the Board of Visitors under the leadership of Thomas Jefferson, an alumnus and then Governor of the Commonwealth of Virginia, on December 4, 1779. The present Law School takes its name from the first occupant of this chair—George Wythe, signer of the Declaration of Independence, leading attorney of the age and later justice of the Chancery Court in Richmond; and John Marshall, one of Wythe's first students and subsequently the great chief justice of the United States.

The first phase of the law program at the College of William and Mary extended from 1779 to 1861. Following the long years of suffering and devastation after the Civil War, the Law School reopened its doors in 1922. It became a member of the Association of American Law Schools in 1936.

THE PROGRAM IN LAW AND TAXATION

The Marshall-Wythe School of Law of the College of William and Mary established a program leading to the Degree of Master of Law and Taxation in September 1954.

This program was premised upon the recognition of the need for competently trained persons to serve the nation in any capacity in which a thorough comprehension of all phases of taxation—Accounting, Business Administration, Economics and Law superimposed upon a baccalaureate degree in the liberal arts—is an essential requirement. Accordingly, all law graduate candidates for admission to this program must have received a bachelor's degree and a bachelor of laws degree from approved colleges or universities with a baccalaureate concentration in accounting and economics and with grades indicative of their ability to do graduate work in law. The graduate program then offers them a broad range of courses in Federal and State tax policy, tax law and procedures. Upon completion of the program, the successful candidates are awarded the Degree of Master of Law and Taxation. The College follows with great interest the service rendered by all recipients of this advanced professional degree. A list of all on whom this degree has been conferred begins on page 107. An outline of the requirements and a description of the courses are shown in the Appendix beginning on page 105.
