DEDICATION

In appreciation of his years of service and in recognition of his retirement in June 1974, the Staff of the William and Mary Law Review respectfully dedicates this issue to

ARTHUR WARREN PHELPS

Professor of Law at the College of William and Mary since 1945, and Exchange Professor of Law at the University of Exeter in 1966-67. Professor Phelps has made influential contributions to the legal literature of Virginia in his authoritative Handbooks on Rules of Procedure in Actions at Law (1959, 2d ed., 1967), Rules of Equity Practice and Procedure (1961) and Rules of Appellate Procedure (1964), as well as his work on Divorce and Alimony in Virginia and West Virginia (1963).

His quiet good nature and mastery of subtle analysis of legal propositions will remain as equally lasting contributions to the standards of legal education at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. For so stimulating a personality, retirement can only mean enlarged time for still further service.
