

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

Joseph S. Gerbasi, Toward a Sunnier Day for RICO: The Sixth Amendment Implications of Forfeiture of Attorneys' Fees Paid by a Crime Family Defendant, is a second-year student at Marshall-Wythe. Mr. Gerbasi is a member of the 1988-89 Marshall-Wythe National Moot Court Team. Mr. Gerbasi received a B.A. in Economics from Boston College in 1986. Mr. Gerbasi wishes to thank Vice Dean Richard A. Williamson and the editorial board of the William and Mary Law Review for their assistance. He also wishes to thank his family for their continued support.

Cheryl Ann Lewis, Kendrick v. Bowen and the Chastity Act: On the High Wall Between Church and State, is a second-year student at Marshall-Wythe. Ms. Lewis received a B.A. from the University of Virginia in 1984. Ms. Lewis has worked on Capitol Hill, including two years as staff assistant to Senator Warner. Ms. Lewis wishes to thank Professor Judith Ledbetter and Mr. Charles Sorensen of the Civil Division of the U.S. Department of Justice for their assistance in preparing her article.

Mark C. Raby, Virginia's Attorney Sanctions: The Right Stuff or The Big Chill?, is a third-year student at Marshall-Wythe. Mr. Raby received a B.S., Business Administration, emphasis in marketing and management, from Central Michigan University in 1984.