Law Award
Established At W&M

William and Mary Law School announced yesterday the establishment of the award. The prize, to be given by the Law School Association, will consist of $1,000 and a silver shovel. The award will be presented to the best student in the school for the year ending June 30. The prize will be voted on by the judges who will be four faculty members.

The award was established by the Law School Association. It is named in honor of John J. Williams, chief justice of Kentucky, a former justice of the Supreme Court of the United States.
