SELECTED HIGHLIGHTS OF THE YEAR

- More than 73% of the Class of 1998 participated in the 3L Class Gift, an extraordinary new record (see p. 44).

- The Annual Fund exceeded $400,000 for the first time ever; the number of donors increased nearly 10%.

- A Law School Moot Court team placed second out of 22 teams in regional competition, qualifying for the 48th National Moot Court Competition in New York City (see p. 22).

- Colleen Kotyk ’98 won the writing contest sponsored by the American Academy of Matrimonial Law, Virginia Chapter for her treatise on mediation and family law.

- By February 1998, 98.1% of ’97 graduates reporting to the Office of Career Planning and Placement had secured jobs or were pursuing advanced degrees (see p. 24).

- Professor Michael Gerhardt was featured nationally on television and radio as a commentator on the impeachment process (see p. 35).

- Professor I. Trotter Hardy presented his final report to the U.S. Copyright Office following his service as scholar-in-residence and technical advisor.

- Director of the Law Library and Professor of Law James Heller was elected president of the American Association of Law Libraries.

- Professor Neal Devins testified before the U.S. House Judiciary Committee on Congress’ power to “correct” Supreme Court decision-making.
Dear Alumni and Friends,

This annual report covers 1997-98. Paul Marcus was dean, and the Law School had a very good year indeed.

The format of the report differs somewhat from the approach taken in the past. The report comes in a size and shape designed to fit on your bookshelf, if you'd like to keep it as a ready source of data about the Law School.

Our goal was to pack a lot of interesting and important facts about Marshall-Wythe into a relatively few pages. We do hope that you enjoy the result. It clearly is a “work in progress” for future years, and your thoughts about how future editions ought to evolve would be very welcome. In particular, we would like to hear if some sorts of information missing in the 1997-98 annual report ought to be included in next year's report.

Cordially,

W. Taylor Reveley, III
Dean

GETTING INVOLVED

ALUMNI ACTIVITIES

Each year, hundreds of Marshall-Wythe alumni become actively involved in the lives of our current students. Their support is crucial in preparing these young men and women for professional careers, and in further enhancing the reputation of the Law School. We thank all of our alumni for their exceptional support.

There are many ways you can get involved:

- Recruiting prospective students
- Participating as a moot court trial judge
- Mentoring a student in the Co-Counsel program (see next page)
- Helping students hone their interviewing skills in mock job interviews
- Conducting on-campus interviews as a prospective employer
- Helping new graduates find jobs

If you are interested in any of these activities, please consult the Law School Association Committee directory on pages 14-15.

Alumni also give their time in important leadership positions, such as:

- Law School Foundation Board Members
- Law School Association Board Members
- Reunion Committee Members

CO-COUNSEL PROFILE

Two years ago, Elizabeth Evans 3L — then a first-year law student — was paired with an alumni mentor through the Co-Counsel program. Her “Senior Co-Counsel” is U.S. Magistrate Judge Tommy Miller ’73.

During Elizabeth’s time at the Law School, Judge Miller has served as a valuable resource. “He has been very helpful providing guidance on the best courses to take, and how to pursue a clerkship and other career options,” she says.

The Co-Counsel program also offers opportunities for alumni to offer moral support. While Elizabeth was preparing for her first-semester exams, Judge Miller wrote her a letter encouraging her not to be worried. The letter arrived at a perfect time, just after Elizabeth had finished her first exam. Judge Miller’s letter was particularly meaningful because it came from someone who’d been through the exact same experience.

In addition to serving as a Senior Co-Counsel, Judge Miller regularly presides over student trials in the Trial Advocacy program. While he is at the Law School, he and Elizabeth try to meet for lunch. They also see each other regularly at meetings of the I’Anson-Hoffman Chapter of the Inns of Court, giving Elizabeth the opportunity to meet several of the Judge’s former clerks who are William and Mary alumni. To complete her Law School career, she will be participating in an externship with Judge Miller during the spring semester.

The Class of 2001

A Profile

On August 17, 1998, the William and Mary School of Law welcomed 175 new students. They brought rich and varied backgrounds, including previous work as a

- Patriot Missile platoon leader
- Women's studies instructor
- Research chemist
- Deputy Chief of Staff for a U.S. Senator
- DNA testing laboratory supervisor
- Missionary
- Surgeon
- Probation officer
- Pharmacist
- Systems engineer

The Class of 2001 also has a collective story to tell:

Median GPA 3.30
Median LSAT 162 (89th percentile)

Colleges and Universities Represented 100+
States/Foreign Countries Represented 32 states, 5 countries
Number Holding Graduate Degrees 21
Average Age 25
Female 44%
Male 56%
Students of Color 21%

Our LL.M. program in the American Legal System adds further to this rich environment with international students from France, Norway, Poland and Switzerland this year.
CURRICULUM PROMOTES SOLID LEGAL TRAINING

Our curriculum has grown to just under 120 courses and seminars in an average year: a 50% increase from five years ago.

A sampling of new course offerings includes:

- Adversarial Justice
- European Union
- Family and the State
- Feminist Legal Theory
- Food and Drug Law
- Immigration Law
- International Commercial Law
- International Trade Law
- Law and Development
- Law and Literature
- Law and Social Justice
- Pretrial Case Preparation

In addition, our award-winning Legal Skills Program provides effective hands-on instruction and careful analysis of professional skills and professional responsibility issues in a small group setting during the first two years of law school.
"The faculty are the Law School's biggest asset — they're extremely interested in working with students. I've been helped both professionally and personally by Professor Kathy Urbonya. I developed excellent research skills while working for her, and she was of tremendous assistance in getting me through my second year."

— Jeff Timmers 3L, President, Student Bar Association

"The Office of Career Planning and Placement is incredibly accessible. You can sign up for an advising session as often as you need to — my friends at other law schools haven't had the same experience. The staff is proactive, and they know the markets well enough to find information on careers in every area of the law. I'll be working for the firm of Hunton & Williams next year — the result of an on-campus interview arranged by OCCP."

— Francine Friedman 3L, Director, Public Service Fund

"At Marshall-Wythe, we have a lot of opportunity to work outside the classroom, and become involved in activities that may be related but are different from our academic experience. It's like real life. We're able to prepare ourselves for the professional world and also develop ourselves personally, learning how to balance all the demands life will offer."

— Dana Loftis 3L, Editor-in-Chief, Amicus Curiae

"I worked for an international trading firm before coming to law school and was able to see practicing lawyers at work. I knew that law school would be a place where I'd develop the most challenging of life skills. I chose Marshall-Wythe because of its well-known dedication to students. The support comes from all professors — adjunct and tenured — and from the administration. I didn't find the same atmosphere at the law schools I visited as an undergraduate in Washington, D.C. Here, there are no artificial boundaries between students, faculty and staff."

— Lavonda Smith 2L, President, Black Law Students Association

"Marshall-Wythe is a law school with national and international ambitions, and the students are very reflective of that. The sky's the limit, whatever your interest or goal. Last year, I approached a professor and was given the opportunity to draft two chapters for his upcoming book on international project finance transactions. What I learned was directly transferable to my summer job — I worked on the financing of a $1 billion hydroelectric plant in the Philippines for Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts in New York City. I've received an offer to join the firm as an associate next year."

— Chris Matteson 3L, Chair, 3L Class Gift Committee
OVERVIEW OF EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

PREPARING THE CITIZEN-LAWYER

The Law School offers a rich and varied menu of extracurricular activities for students, complementing and enhancing academic life. Students also attend lectures, symposia and conferences throughout the year, bringing them in contact with distinguished legal scholars and jurists from across the country.

Through these opportunities, students acquire valuable leadership experience, hone their intellectual skills and learn the importance of serving others. Our students' well-rounded education at Marshall-Wythe helps prepare them to be citizen-lawyers in the spirit of George Wythe, Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall, Henry Clay and William Spong.

William and Mary law students brought home numerous awards from national moot court competitions in 1997-98. The William and Mary National Team comprised of Rinku Talwar, Joseph Keifer and Laura Specter achieved second place in the National Moot Court Regional Competition and advanced to the finals in New York City. In other competitions against teams from across the United States, William and Mary finished first in the Irving R. Kaufman Memorial Securities Moot Court Competition and third in the Duberstein Bankruptcy Moot Court Competition, and reached the quarter-finals of the Robert F. Wagner, Sr. National Labor Law Competition. Third-year student David Christian was named Final Round Best Speaker in the Kaufman competition.

William and Mary participants included Matthew Ahmann, David Baker, David Copas, Kimberle Hackett, Maqui Parkerson, Rachel Smith, Mark Van Deusen and Angel Williams. Students were judged on written briefs and their performance in oral arguments before panels of federal appellate and trial court judges.

As operating expenses continue to rise, however, we must continue to increase tuition charges. Marshall-Wythe remains committed to supporting qualified students with financial assistance in the form of scholarships and loans.

Scholarship Recipients, 1997-98
164/534 students = 30.7%

Loan Recipients, 1997-98
405/534 students = 75.8%
Total loan volume = $7.4 million
Average debt burden per loan recipient = $18,299

More than 80% of scholarships are funded by private gifts. The financial support of our alumni and friends is increasingly important so that we can continue to attract the quality of students that Marshall-Wythe has come to expect.

ADJUNCT FACULTY

43 adjunct faculty members bring a variety of employment experience to the classroom including:

• Partners in Hunton & Williams, Kaufman & Canoles, Mays & Valentine, and other firms

• Judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit

• Trial Attorney, Civil Rights Division, U.S. Department of Justice

• Commonwealth's Attorney

• Patent Counsel at NASA Langley Research Center

• Commissioner of the State Corporation Commission of Virginia

• Vice President and General Counsel, CSX Corporation

These professors, who teach courses ranging from National Securities Law to Admiralty Law, bring real-world experience directly to the classroom and greatly enrich the educational experience of our students. Adjunct professors are indispensable to our Legal Skills program, guiding first- and second-year students as they proceed from start to finish through a simulated case — in client interviews, negotiating, writing briefs, arguing cases at trial and much more.

FINANCIAL OVERVIEW
1998-99 OPERATING BUDGET

As is true nationally, Virginia’s taxpayers pay a decreasing share of Marshall-Wythe’s operating costs — only 20 percent in 1998-99. The remaining 80 percent of our budget is met by tuition and private contributions.

At William and Mary, the Law School has become a public-private partnership.

ALUMNI PARTICIPATION

CLASS OF 1998 SETS A NEW STANDARD

An amazing 73 percent of this year's graduating class made three-year pledges to the Class Gift, totaling more than $46,000. The Law School community expresses gratitude to the Class of 1998 for this commitment.

124/169 class members = 73.3% participation
Total gifts and pledges = $46,037
Average gift = $371

The 3L Class Gift Committee presents a ceremonial check to the Law School during Spring Alumni Weekend.

Special thanks to 3L Class Gift Co-Chairs Audra Dial and Anne Mayer and committee members:
