KENNETH CULP DAVIS

Distinguished Lee Fellow, 1986–87
In Residence, October 8–10, 1986
KENNETH CULP DAVIS

Kenneth Culp Davis is Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of San Diego School of Law. From 1961 to 1976 he was the John P. Wilson Professor of Law at the University of Chicago. He has also taught at West Virginia, Texas, Minnesota, and Harvard and has practiced law in both a private firm and in the Department of Justice.

Professor Davis has enjoyed a career of achievement almost unparalleled in legal education. More than a hundred of his articles have appeared in legal periodicals. His Administrative Law Treatise, the first edition in four volumes (1958) and the second in five volumes (1978–84), is a landmark in the field. His administrative law casebook is now in its sixth edition, while his text is in its third. Professor Davis has turned his attention, as well, to a number of different subject areas, publishing articles on Constitutional Law, Federal Courts, Evidence and Criminal Law. In 1969 he published Discretionary Justice: A Preliminary Inquiry, followed in 1975 by Police Discretion.

ABOUT THE SERIES

In 1976, an annual George Wythe Lecture series was begun. The annual George Wythe Lecture is named in honor of the occupant of the first chair of law at William and Mary and in the United States. George Wythe was not only the law teacher of distinguished American patriots—Jefferson and Marshall among them—but was himself one of the most distinguished lawyers and judges of the late colonial and eyearly national period.
THE INSTITUTE OF BILL OF RIGHTS LAW

The Institute of Bill of Rights Law is a privately funded organization primarily oriented to education and research on constitutional liberties. Its foundation in 1982 at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law recognized the prominent role of Williamsburg and the College of William and Mary in the legal education of the early leaders of the United States.

The Institute derives its initial funding from the Lee Memorial Trust Fund, created in a bequest from Laura Lee of Washington, D.C. in memory of her parents, Alfred Wilson Lee and Mary I. W. Lee. Mr. Lee was founder and president of Lee Enterprises, Inc., a communications corporation consisting of newspapers, electronic media and related entities, headquartered in Davenport, Iowa.

The Institute's central focus is scholarship and education of freedom of speech and of the press, with interests also in legal history, legal writing, and professional responsibility. The Institute serves both the legal and journalism professions in manners consistent with its ties to a professional school and an institution of higher education. The Institute is an academic foundation; it undertakes no lobbying and adopts no partisan political stance. Its mission is quality research and public education.
