THE CUTLER LECTURES

The Cutler Lectures were established in 1927 by James Goold Cutler, of Rochester, New York, to provide for an annual lecture at the College of William and Mary by "an outstanding authority of the Constitution of the United States." The first series of sixteen lectures, which ran from 1927 to 1944, included lectures by outstanding figures from both public life and the academic world, including Harold Laski, Max Lerner, and Charles Warren. After thirty-seven years of dormancy, the Cutler Lectures were revived in the 1980-81 academic year, with each lecture published as an article in the William and Mary Law Review. The March 24, 1988 lecture is the eighth of the modern series, which is intended to follow both the spirit and prominence of the earlier lectures.

THE INSTITUTE OF BILL OF RIGHTS LAW

The Institute of Bill of Rights Law was established at William and Mary to support scholarly research on the Bill of Rights. Established in 1982 by a bequest of Laura Lee, who held a lifelong interest in a free press and its role in our society, in memory of her parents, Alfred Wilson Lee and Mary I.W. Lee, the Institute’s central focus is scholarship and education on freedom of speech and the press. It is an academic foundation with a mission of quality research and public education.

Kenneth L. Karst is a professor of law at the University of California at Los Angeles. He graduated from the Harvard Law School in 1953, practiced law in California for several years, and then began his teaching career at Ohio State in 1958. He joined the faculty at UCLA in 1965, specializing in constitutional law and federal courts.

Professor Karst has written or edited four books including the highly regarded Encyclopedia of the American Constitution (with Leonard Levy) and, most recently, the forthcoming Belonging to America: The Constitution and the Claims of Equal Citizenship, Yale University Press.
