Better Reclamation

Repository Citation
Better Reclamation, 2 Wm. & Mary Envtl. L. & Pol'y Rev. 7 (1976), https://scholarship.law.wm.edu/wmelp/vol2/iss1/9
From time to time since the beginning of the environmental movement, groups of concerned people have come together and formed organizations to give effective voice to their concerns. Knowledge about these organizations and their purposes can often provide a lawyer with an opportunity to use his or her professional skills in furthering a cause which the lawyer believes in and wishes to support. One such citizens group which has formed recently is the Virginia Citizens for Better Reclamation (or V.C.B.R.). This group was formed in response to the abuse of the land in southwest Virginia because of coal strip-mine operations. While many groups have formed in coal-mining areas to urge the abolition of strip-mining, the VCBR seeks to attack industry abuses. The group seeks to do this by monitoring the enforcement of current law and also by lobbying for stricter laws and regulations.

Better Reclamation

From time to time since the beginning of the environmental movement, groups of concerned people have come together and formed organizations to give effective voice to their concerns. Knowledge about these organizations and their purposes can often provide a lawyer with an opportunity to use his or her professional skills in furthering a cause which the lawyer believes in and wishes to support. One such citizens group which has formed recently is the Virginia Citizens for Better Reclamation (or V.C.B.R.). This group was formed in response to the abuse of the land in southwest Virginia because of coal strip-mine operations. While many groups have formed in coal-mining areas to urge the abolition of strip-mining, the VCBR seeks to attack industry abuses. The group seeks to do this by monitoring the enforcement of current law and also by lobbying for stricter laws and regulations.